HOUSE PRESSES FOR REMOVAL OF HOUR LIMIT

Suspension of 40-Hour Week Still Sought Despite Union Offers.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 25 — The CIO and AFL promised readiness to modify their overtime pay [illegible] today in response to administration efforts, but despite this a house drive pressed forward for suspending the 40-hour-week in war industries.

The agitation for a longer work-week in arms plants continued unabated even though President Roosevelt reiterated his opposition to changing the 40-hour-week.

The way events were moving on the labor-production controversy led many on Capitol Hill to believe that a definite showdown was ahead, perhaps involving some sort of a compromise.

One authoritative source disclosed that the house naval committee was studying legislation which would put only war industries on a standard 48-hour-week, with a bonus-incentive plan to spur production. The double purpose of the bill would be the reduction of labor costs on arms contracts and the recapture of all war order profits above six per cent.

Committee discussion of this [illegible] followed the action of the CIO and AFL in offering to forego some of the extra pay now provided for in existing contracts.

CIO Recommends Waiver

The CIO's executive board recommended to affiliated unions last night that they waive overtime pay for Saturday, Sunday and holiday work when such work is performed within a 40-hour week. However, overtime rates would continue in effect for work over and above the 40-hour limit.

President William Green of the AFL likewise announced that his action had given the government assurance that "it will waive double-time payment for Sunday and holiday work in all war industries for the duration."

The CIO chief, Philip Murray, said that the action was at the behest of President Roosevelt and Donald M. Nelson, war production board chief, but Green claimed that AFL unions had adopted such a policy more than a year ago.

Double time for Sundays happened to be one of the issues in the case involving the International Harvester company which was called for a hearing today before the full war labor board. Both CIO and AFL unions have

NEW SCHEDULE FOR BUS LINE ANNOUNCED

Service Extended on Mt. Vernon-Silver Run.

A new schedule for the Mt. Vernon avenue-Silver street bus run was announced today by Ray Maag, president of the Marion Rapid Transit Co.

Starting tonight, buses will leave on the Mt. Vernon run on every hour and half hour, or at 30-minute intervals. This run will be continued until 11 p. m., whereas it formerly was stopped at 6 p. m. The run will start at 6 a. m.

On the Silver street run, the last bus will leave the courthouse at 11:00, on the old schedule, the last bus left at 9:10.

In addition, Mr. Maag announced the company intends to inaugurate the same schedules on Sunday from now on as have been in force throughout the week.

MARION YOUTH TO TAKE NAVAL ACADEMY EXAM

Jack W. Houpt To Take Physical Test On June 23.

Cong. Frederick C. Smith announced in a communication from Washington he had received notification from the bureau of navigation, navy department, that Jack W. Houpt, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Houpt of 132 South Main street, has met the educational and mental qualifications for entrance to the United States Naval Academy.

Houpt is one of four principals to the U. S. Naval Academy designated for appointment by Cong. Smith as a result of civil service examinations given here last October. He has been authorized to report to the academy June 23 for physical examination and will be admitted if he successfully passes the physical requirements. He is now a student at Ohio university.

No report has been made on the acceptance of other candidates' educational qualifications.

City Council To Be Asked To Hospital Board Meeting

Board Members Decide on Session After Council Rejects Architects' Contract.

City council will be invited into session next Monday night at 8 with the hospital building board and T. D. McLaughlin of T. D. McLaughlin & Associates of Lima, architects, to discuss a contract satisfactory to council in erecting an addition to City hospital.

Decision to invite council to the Monday meeting followed a meeting of the four-member board, Clarence O. Brown, A. W. Kette, Walter A. Dorsey and Dr. E. L. Brady, with Mayor Russell C. Snare and Mr. McLaughlin last night in the mayor's office. L. W. Shadacker, clerk in the mayor's office was present for most of the meeting.

Mr. McLaughlin, unaware of council's action Monday night rejecting his firm's contract because of several clauses, assured the board that council was within its rights but that he was anxious and willing to meet the group and iron out any differences. He gave a virtual "write your own contract" response to the account of council's rejection.

Discusses Contract

Explaining that the contract form presented to council Monday night was drawn up by the American Institute of Architects, he said there might be objections to two paragraphs which council pointed out, but added "it is something really prepared by the best authorities in the country, not only legal, but professional and ethical."

"That probably should have been crossed off," he said in reference to the paragraph calling for paying the architects 20 per cent of their fee when the preliminary plans are drawn and 40 per cent when the final plans were finished.

In explaining another paragraph regarding extra pay for extra work on the project, Mr. McLaughlin stated: "That paragraph agrees that the architect is to perform a specific job only once. A contract is an agreement to do a specific thing and when you perform it the contract is executed. If you make changes after that time that is an additional service or if the building burns, as we had happen at Piqua when a clubhouse burned the night it was ready and we had to supervise it over again, that is doing a service over again."

Wants To Meet Council

Literally brushing aside these two objections and assuring the board that he was willing to talk with council on any kind of contract, Mr. McLaughlin expressed a desire to meet with council and discuss the matter with the members.

"We should have a contract to satisfy council," he declared. "I won't quibble on changes you want (in hospital plans) — we'll make them without additional cost so that I think we ought to find out what they (council) want and then draw a contract stating what they want. I'll meet with council and you and we'll have the contract the way they want it."

Mr. McLaughlin arrived home last Friday from 10 days spent in Washington, D. C., in the interests of a group of projects.

Prior to his arrival at the meeting the board and Mayor Snare discussed generally the status of the hospital addition problem.

Mr. Kette declared: "It's my opinion council never will do anything unless we hire a Marion architect. Politics is too strong. The hospital problem is in the gutter. It never will be decided on its merits. We (the board) are satisfied the contract is legal. . . How do we know what they (council) want?"

Action on Grant Delayed

Mayor Snare told the board that he has had in his possession for more than a month the proper applications for a federal grant to augment the bond issue voted overwhelmingly by Marion voters last November, but that these papers could not be filed until council acts on an architect. Such a grant, it was explained in dis-

PLANT LIMITS WAR PROFITS

Cleveland Firm Reduces Top Salaries but Maintains Workers' Bonuses.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, March 25—Jack & Heintz, Inc., aircraft parts producer accused on a congressional hearing of making excess war profits, today cut its profits to 6 per cent and slashed executives' incomes, but continued its policy of plant-wide bonuses and free lunches for workers.

President William S. Jack, returning from a hearing of the house naval affairs committee to his plant, where he was welcomed by employes' cheers and the banging of their tools, said prices to the army and navy had been cut and would be cut further, as rapidly as possible.

Outlines Future Policy

He gave this outline of future policy for the concern, which has about $58,000,000 in war contracts for airplane motor starters and automatic pilots:

Profits—All profits on present and future contracts will be limited voluntarily to 6 per cent for the duration of the war, any excesses to be returned to the army and navy at the end of each year.

Salaries—Jack, his son William Russell Jack and Ralph M. Heintz, vice presidents, will receive $15,000 a year each for the duration, instead of $100,000, and will receive no bonuses. They are the sole stockholders. No member of the organization will receive more than $25,000 a year. Miss Adelaide Bowman, Jack's secretary, volunteered to have her salary cut from $25,000 to $6,000 a year. Testimony at the hearing showed Jack's salary and bonuses totaled $145,845 last year, and Miss Bowman received $39,356 in salary and bonus last year.

Maintain Worker Bonuses

Workers' bonuses and benefits—The company will continue its present policy "of dealing with our associates"—as all employes are termed. Last Christmas the firm gave each of 800 employes a $600 bonus, a turkey and a wrist watch. Free lunches, free dental care, recorded music during work, a monthly banquet and other items have marked the policy. Employes will continue to get 15 per cent of the company's earnings," divided equally among them as Christmas bonuses.

Prices — Referring to motor starters, Jack said the firm voluntarily reduced prices last Jan. 19 to the army, by 28 per cent under previous contract prices, and on navy contracts, "10 per cent of our production," prices on all future business have been cut about 25 per cent. He promised further cuts.

Jack will describe his Washington trip to the "associates" at the next monthly banquet, Saturday night.

JAPANESE OCCUPY ISLANDS OFF INDIA

By The Associated Press

NEW DELHI, INDIA, March 25—The Indian government announced today that the Andaman islands in the bay of Bengal have been occupied by the Japanese.

The Indian government announced the occupation of the Andaman group, which consists of 204 jungle-covered islands, inhabited by descendants of pigmy warriors.

It was the westernmost Japanese penetration of the war and the first seizure of Indian territory by the enemy.

The Andamans lie 350 miles southwest of Rangoon, along the vital sea route of United States supplies to Calcutta, chief eastern Indian port.

MURDER TRIAL JURY SELECTED

Mother-in-Law of Accused Kenton Man Is First Witness Called.

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., March 25—The trial of Francis Edward Raver, 23-year-old Kenton factory employe charged with the first degree murder of his wife on Jan. 26 as she prepared his breakfast, got under way this morning in Hardin county common pleas court with seating of the jury, opening statements by the attorneys and questioning of the state's first witness, the dead woman's mother, Mrs. Golda Lamb Wetherill.

Selecting of the jury, started Monday, was completed late yesterday afternoon and this morning the jurors were seated.

Prosecuting Attorney Rex W. Hanna in his opening statement said the state would attempt to show that the murder was premeditated and would demand the death penalty.

Defense Outlined

Roy Warren Roof, one of Raver's two attorneys, said the murder was not premeditated and that a second bullet fired into Mrs. Raver's body had been intended for Raver himself in a suicide attempt. The defense contended that "mother-in-law trouble" was the basic cause of the tragedy.

While Attorney Roof was speaking the defendant wiped tears from his eyes, his first display of emotion so far this week.

Mrs. Wetherill took the stand at 11:20 and testified briefly before court was adjourned for the noon recess. She was to take the stand again this afternoon.

Mrs. Wetherill said that on the morning of Jan. 26 she was in a bedroom adjoining the kitchen of The Raver apartment and that when she heard a shot she rushed into the kitchen and saw her daughter on the floor. The mother said she screamed and at that instant Raver fired another bullet into her daughter's body. Mrs. Wetherill said she had been making her home with her son-in-law and daughter.

The jury visited the scene of the slaying after being seated.

12 On Jury

There are 12 persons serving, in order that the trial not be held up in event of illness or necessary absence of one the jurors. The thirteenth member is Mrs. Lucille Spe[illegible] near Ada.

The 12 are Mrs. Minda Flynn of south of Kenton; Mrs. Eva Kennel of Kenton, Joseph A. Hougendobler of Forest, Mrs. Ruth Henkle of Roundhead, Mrs. Agnes Dunson of southeast of Kenton, LeRoy Lenhart, Floy Jones and Walter Beach of west of Kenton, True W. Yale and Lymon Turner of Ada, Ray Ramge of east of Kenton and Ferdinand Laubie of southeast of Kenton.

Miss Lucille Davis of Bellefontaine is serving as court stenographer in place of Miss Mary Scott, Kenton, who is recovering from an illness.

MOTORCYCLE HITS GIRL; 3 INJURED

Vehicle Ridden by Two Men Crashes Into Tree.

A motorcycle ridden by two men hit a 12-year-old girl at Grand avenue and Church street at noon today. After hitting the girl, the motorcycle struck a tree, throwing the men to the ground.

Harold Williams of 191 Harrison street, who suffered worst injuries in the mishap, was taken to City hospital in an M. H. Gunder & Sons ambulance. Calvin Rank of 534 North Main street, other passenger on the motorcycle, was reported not seriously injured.

Della Lee of 516 Polk street, who was first hit by the motorcycle while crossing at the intersection, was taken to her home, apparently only slightly injured.

SIBERIAN DRIVE BY JAPANESE HELD LIKELY

London Sources Point to Advantages of Attack on Russians.

By DREW MIDDLETON
Associated Press Writer

LONDON, March 25—The consensus of military opinion as spring heralds the great battles of 1942 is that the advantages to Japan of an invasion of Siberia outweigh the dangers and the attack may come soon—before the Nazis launch their drive in western Russia.

Even though Japan is deeply involved in the southern Pacific, military sources point out that the rewards of success in an assault on Siberia and Vladivostok, the U.S.S.R.'s big Pacific port, are too rich for the Japanese general staff to ignore.

First and most important is Vladivostok.

United States bombers based there would be within easy range not only of Tokyo and Yokohama but also of Nagasaki, the great Japanese naval base, which is only 655 miles by air.

On the other hand, Vladivostok could be a secondary Japanese base for attacks on Alaska.

Part of Axis Design

Secondly, there is the grand strategic design of the axis based on diversion of United Nations forces. Only the Soviet, so far, has been able to concentrate its armies on one fighting front.

Thus, an attack by Japan on the east ahead of a German thrust in western Russia could have two beneficial effects for the axis, it is reasoned. It might draw Russian forces eastward or, at least, compel the Russians to hold some troops in reserve against the possibility of a Japanese advance beyond Siberia.

Russia's strength in Siberia is not known. The axis claims to have identified units of the first and second Red banner armies, which once formed part of the Siberian garrison, in western Russia.

Observers generally agree that Japan may be spurred to attack on the belief of her generals that the U.S.S.R. has drained at least some power from Siberia.

Conversely, it is pointed out, the Japanese have used relatively small forces in Malaya and Java. Authoritative estimates put Japan's current strength in the south Pacific now at a minimum of 10 and a maximum of 15 divisions—225,000 men at most—and say that only four of these, three in Burma and one split between Java and New Guinea—are actively in the field.

Only Small Force Involved

These divisions form only a small part of the Japanese army, mobilized since 1937 from a nation of 70,000,000 or more.

Air and sea power have been the chief factors in Japan's southern progress, military men say, and with air and sea control she does not need large land forces to hold her gains.

While that is accomplished by stages through the summer, one military observer commented, a force of 10 Japanese divisions could move against Siberia.

"Once the northern air frontier is secured," he said, "Japan

Farewell Party To Be Held Friday at Likens Chapel

A farewell and fellowship meeting will be held Friday night at 8 in the Likens Chapel Methodist church which will be abandoned soon after 70 years in the community. The property has been acquired by the government.

Located northeast of Marion, on the Likens and Pole Lane roads, the first church was built 70 years ago. The original church burned about 1916 and the present brick structure was dedicated in June of 1917.

The farewell Friday night will start with a potluck supper at 8. Afterward there will be a program of music.

Everyone in the community and all former members have been invited.

Rev. Donald Lyon, who serves the Kirkpatrick and Claridon Methodist churches is the present pastor and the superintendent of the Sunday school is Albert Seckel, who lives in the first house east of the church.

Oldest living member of the congregation is Walter Cluff, 81, of 353 Pennsylvania avenue. Years ago Mr. Cluff was superintendent of the Sunday school and for the last 42 years he has been the treasurer. Mrs. Cluff has been in charge of Sunday school literature for the last 36 years.

Farmers Told How U. S. Will Acquire Marion County Land for Use of War Department

Army Engineers' Official Explains Important Details of War Manufacturing Project to Crowd of 700.

The procedure to be followed by the United States government in acquiring Marion county farm land for military manufacturing purposes was outlined in detail and scores of questions from an overflow crowd of more than 700 persons were answered in a public meeting last night at Edison Junior High school.

Some of the principal points of information brought out at the meeting were:

Only one area of land is to be used in Marion county by the government so far as the land acquisition office knows. This apparently quiets reports that various sections of the county were to be affected.

The plant is expected to be finished by fall.

No flat acreage price will be followed in appraising land the government is acquiring.

Marion is likely to get some federal housing to provide living quarters for workers.

Principal speaker was William F. Piers, project manager for the land acquisition office, working under the army engineers for the Fifth Corps Area. He reviewed his work in Marion in the last four weeks and told how the war department plans to acquire ownership of certain Marion county farm land in a gradual process that will continue over the next few weeks. On it will be located a project to be known as the Scioto Ordnance plant.

Mr. Piers said the area involved about 12,000 acres and that about 120 farms were affected. He also said that the acreage is somewhat less than originally planned.

Definite orders to proceed to acquire the land came last Thursday, and since that time a group of men have been busy working out the details of acquiring the land, he said.

Five appraisers have begun work, "five appraisers who know what farm land is like and who are fully acquainted with the value of land and buildings and who understand farm problems," he said.

Facts Sought

"They want to go over each farm in company with the owner. They want you to call to their attention every factor that might enter into the valuation of your farm. If your fields are well tiled, they want to know it. They want to pay you for your farm, for your buildings, for your crops and if they come across a field that is plowed but not yet planted, they even want to pay you for your plowing—that's how fair they're going to be. Incidentally, I want to say the cooperation we've had from farmers so far has been far above average and I want to assure you these appraisers—two of whom are Ohio men—will be fair and conscientious when they call at your farm.

"After appraisers visit you, some negotiators will call on you in an effort to agree with you on a price. They too are capable men and conscientious.

"Then will come the final closing proceedings — when the land will be turned over to the government and you'll get your money. Payment in most cases should be in about 60 days from now, although the process will be gradual because it will take the appraisers about four weeks to cover the affected land."

Seeks to Quiet Rumors

Mr. Piers explained he had arranged the meeting "to present facts, calm fears and quiet rumors" in connection with the government's activities near Marion.

After speaking briefly, he started asking for questions, and spent about half an hour replying to a rapid-fire series of inquiries from persons in the audience. The substance of some of these questions and his answers follows:

Q. If the government buys my property, can I remove the furnace from my house? A. No, not after the appraisers have called on you. However, you'll prop-

OFFER OF AID

Free parking space for farm machinery owned by farmers who will have to vacate land the government is acquiring has been offered by A. J. Loudenslager and Forest Loudenslager. Their farm is three miles south of Morral, three and one-half miles west of Forest Glen.

The machines would have to be in the open, but if protected with a coat of paint they should not deteriorate much in a year's time, the donors pointed out. They said they felt the offer might help solve problems of families obliged to move but who had not located new farms.

WAKE, MARCUS DEFENSE WORKS ARE SMASHED

Task Force Makes Lightning Attacks; One 950 Miles from Tokyo.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 25 — The navy told today of highly successful raids on Japanese-held Wake and Marcus islands which so disturbed Japan, reports from Pearl Harbor said, that Tokyo's lights were blacked out for several nights.

Enemy small boats, seaplanes and numerous shore installations were destroyed, the navy said, as both the strategic Pacific islands, 950 miles from Tokyo and so far as is known, the closest the United States navy forces, with the exception of American submarines, have carried the war to Japan.

The report on the Wake Island raid was the first official disclosure that the Japanese had permanently occupied it and were attempting to fortify that central Pacific island which they finally captured from United States marines Dec. 23 at a heavy cost in men and ships.

219 Bombs, Shells Hit Wake

At Wake, a navy communique said, 219 bombs from aircraft and many shells from cruisers and destroyers were rained on shore installations and a landing field.

"Two enemy patrol boats were sunk, three large seaplanes at anchor were demolished, and the aircraft runways and a part of the defense batteries were damaged," the navy reported. "Our loss in this engagement was one aircraft."

The Wake Island raid occurred Feb. 24. The task force was commanded by Vice Admiral William F. Halsey, senior air force commander in the Pacific, who on Jan. 31 led an attack on Marshall and Gilbert islands which resulted in destruction of 14 enemy ships and 41 aircraft.

On March 4 Halsey's forces which had hit Wake Island a week earlier struck at Marcus Island.

The attack, by air, was executed just before dawn and the navy bombers which roared over the Japanese base dropped flares to illuminate their objectives. "No enemy aircraft or ships were present," the communique said.

"Heavy anti-aircraft fire was encountered while our planes dropped 96 bombs on the small island, resulting in considerable damage to hangars, fuel and ammunition storages, radio installations and aircraft runways. Our loss in this engagement was one aircraft."

Possibly Radio Detector

The navy did not specify what sort of radio installation was believed to have been in operation on Marcus Island but there was speculation that it had been a radio locator device for detecting the approach of American ships or planes toward the very heart of the Japanese-dominated area in the western Pacific.

Naval authorities noted that the great value of Wake and Marcus islands to the Japanese has been in extending the effective patrol range of their aircraft, particularly far in front of their most strongly defended area. Planes operating from Wake, for instance, might be relied upon to detect any westward fleet movement from Hawaii and planes operating from Marcus similarly could patrol a vast area of ocean lying south and east of the Japanese mainland.

The navy communique indicated that the task force leaders had been somewhat disappointed in meeting so little opposition and having so little opportunity to wreak important destruction up the enemy.

"Although the islands had been the scene of much recent enemy activity," the navy said, "these surprise attacks were met with little opposition and the attacking forces found few enemy planes and ships in the areas.

"Considerable damage was done to shore installations, defense positions, aircraft runways and water tanks by combined bombardment from aircraft and surface vessels following the pattern so effectively used by Admiral Halsey in his raid on the Marshall islands."

The navy made no reference in today's report to the aerial action reported March 3 in which a task force, otherwise unidentified, encountered 18 heavy enemy bombers west of the Gilbert Islands and shot down 16 of them. In that action Lieut. Edward H. O'Hare, fighter pilot, became the navy's first ace flier of the war, being personally credited with the de-

JAPS STALLED IN AUSTRALIA

Aerial Attack Is Renewed as Progress In Southern Area Slows Down.

By The Associated Press

Japan, apparently stalled in her campaign against Australia, today renewed heavy aerial bombardment of Manila bay defense area and Bataan peninsula area.

Swift - breaking developments in the Far Pacific theater included:

1. In the Philippines, a war department bulletin reported that Japanese aerial bombardment of harbor defenses of Manila bay and American-Filipino positions on Bataan peninsula was resumed, and that continued enemy ground activity indicated the arrival of fresh Japanese reinforcements.

On Mindanao island, 600 miles south of Manila, the army reported local skirmishes near Digos in which "our troops were successful."

2. In the Dutch Indies, reports reaching Australia said Dutch forces were continuing to resist the Japanese in central Borneo, central Sumatra and parts of Celebes Island, driving the invaders back at some places.

3. In Burma, Chinese headquarters acknowledged that the situation on the Toungoo front, Allied left wing anchor, was "serious," with a heavy battle in progress as Chinese troops sought to dislodge enemy forces which captured an airdrome north of Toungoo.

Chinese Repulse Japs

Chinese reports said Japanese cavalry and infantry in civilian dress—the latter possibly traitorous Burmese—had been beaten off after cutting the storied road to Mandalay 20 miles north of Toungoo yesterday.

It was evident that Japan was making little headway in the campaign against Australia; but at the same time, Australia's Prime Minister John Curtin warned against too optimistic hopes of an allied grand counter-offensive.

"There have been forecasts

TB TESTS IN COUNTY, CITY SCHOOLS SET

Juniors and Seniors To Be Examined April 6-9.

Announcement that tuberculosis tests will be given to juniors and seniors in all Marion city and county high schools April 6 through 9 was made today by officials of the Marion county board of health.

Under sponsorship of the Marion County Anti-Tuberculosis league Dr. W. J. Smith of the state health department in Columbus will conduct the tests. He will be assisted by Dr. N. Sifritt, Marion county health commissioner.

Health board officials said positive tests would be referred to private physicians for further examination and X-ray recommendations. They point out correct, properly-interpreted X-rays are imperative in the diagnosis of tuberculosis; such examinations can detect the disease in its early stages when it is readily curable.

Statistics show about 50 per cent of the nation's populace is infected with tuberculosis germs.

Germans Seen Seeking South American Food

Also Trying To Bludgeon Other War Supplies from Latin Republics, News Reports Indicate.

By JOHN LEAR
Wide World Writer

WASHINGTON, March 25—There is accumulating evidence that Adolf Hitler is trying to bludgeon the South American republics into bringing him food and war materials.

Part of this evidence is the sinking of Brazilian, Chilean and Uruguayan merchant ships by Nazi submarines.

The rest is in two apparently unrelated bit of news from Spain and Argentina.

The Spanish news is the signing by Spain and Argentina of a $40,000,000 barter trade agreement involving a ship line and an airline across the south Atlantic.

The Argentine news, brought to Washington by an accredited Buenos Aires diplomat, is that Vichy France has been pressing Argentina to use four war-interned French cargo ships for trade between Argentina and North Africa.

The three pieces seem to fit into a picture something like this:

Long at It

The Germans, having worked underground in South America for many years, know that those countries must export to live. The war cut normal exports to Europe. Only the war demands of the United States remain as a market. If the submarines can make that route sufficiently dangerous, shipping will have to stop entirely or swing to some other point where it will be safe.

The Germans cannot offer an alternate market. They tried it, but the British and United States navies stopped them. They turned to the Italian airline, Lati, from Africa to Brazil. The Brazilians stopped that.

The Latin republics cannot use their own boats to ship to Germany because they have agreed to sever all commercial relations with the axis. But there are axis ships interned in South American harbors. If they could be sent to ports of Europe or Africa not openly controlled by Germany but ideologically or militarily subject to Germany, the Germans could devise ways of obtaining the cargo.

Under Nazi Influence

In the American view, Spain and France are more or less under the German thumb, Spain ideologically through General Franco and France militarily through threat of occupation.

Some officials of the state department consider the two countries different only in degree. Relations with Vichy are badly strained. Relations with Madrid are "normal" but trade with Spain is carefully regulated.

If the Spanish and French moves in Argentina should succeed on the Nazi pattern, they would break the solid front now being maintained in inter-American shipping. They would divert merchant ships from north-south routes at a time when scarcity of bottoms is slowing down the movement of raw materials to the United States and of food and industrial products southward.

If it became apparent that shipping was being diverted to Germany through France or Spain, it would be necessary for the United States to intervene. That could be expected to cause friction between the United States and Argentina. Such friction is precisely what the Germans hope for.

So far, Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles says he has no official information on the Argentine-Spanish agreement. He has disclosed, however, that the situation is being carefully watched. Concern has been expressed in other quarters.

No comment has come from Buenos Aires on the Madrid announcement of the trade pact, which in any event is not yet worked out in detail and cannot function without ships.

Resistance in Argentina

Argentina has resisted the Vichy demands to use interned French boats in trade with Africa instead of North America, and has held the ships in port. She also is holding four interned German ships, which were bought by Argentines but not permitted to leave port because the buyers were on the blacklist.

This gives the United States time to strengthen its guarantees for the safety of inter-American ship lanes. The South Americas have been asking for convoys, and Welles says convoys are "already under immediate consideration."

If American navies demonstrate conclusively that they can control American waters, Hitler's schemes for the New World will fall flat. What South America wants is life-giving trade. It would much rather have it on its own terms than on Hitler's.

What do I do?

—to protect tires against needless trouble?

Just about half the cars in Ohio are running without VALVE CAPS on tires. Minor item? Not at all—a capless valve lets in water and grit. The tiny rubber core is gradually eaten away, causing slow leaks. And nothing wastes mileage or weakens a tire faster than driving it "soft." So keep valve caps on all tires. They'll protect the valves—help prevent slow leaks from developing.

More Than 70 Expected To Take State-Sponsored Exams.

The annual scholarship tests for high school seniors will be given Saturday morning in Harding High school. In charge of the tests, which will begin at 9 o'clock and last about two-and-half hours, are George Wilson of Marion Ivan Barnhart of Green Camp and Gail Ferris of Kirkpatrick.

An estimated half dozen Harding High seniors, two St. Mary seniors and 62 county schools seniors have expressed their desire to take the tests, which cover mathmatics, English, history, science and reading comprehension.

The papers will be sent to the state department of education in Columbus for grading.

Girls at Claridon Entertain Cage Team

Special to The Star

CLARIDON — Thursday the Girls Athletic association of Claridon entertained the Claridon basketball squad at dinner at the school building. The girls prepared the dinner under the direction of the home economics instructor, Miss Margaret McCleary.

The table was in the shape of a "V" with purple and gold streamers. It also was decorated by trophies won by Claridon teams. Those seated were the players, the G. A. A. members, Supt. and Mrs. A. B. Augenstein, Miss Jane Hill, Miss Meta McCave, Miss McCleary and Miss Mary Frayer.

While a Marion resident he was choir master at Trinity Baptist church here. He is a 32nd degree Mason.

Appointment of Home Superintendent Upheld

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, March 25—The appointment of Marvin Adams as superintendent of the Crawford county children's home at Galion, over which a dispute arose concerning his eligibility to accept the post, was upheld by Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert in a ruling received Tuesday by Prosecutor Leo J. Scanlon.

The ruling sets forth that the certification of Mr. Adams by the civil service commission to the board of trustees is a determination of the eligibility of the appointee.

The dispute over the appointment arose when the question of whether Adams was a resident of Crawford county when he took the examination for the position, in which he ranked first.

Bucyrus Man Injured in Traffic Accident

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, March 25—Lewis S. Nedele, 70, is in City hospital where he is receiving treatment for head and facial injuries received when he was struck by an automobile driven by Ellsworth Stansberry Tuesday. The accident occurred as Stansberry turned onto Sandusky avenue at Washington square. A passing car obstructed his view, Stansberry told police.

ARGUMENTS GO ON IN FOREST GLEN CASE

Defense Attorneys Heard by Jury; Trial Near End.

Special to The Star

COLUMBUS, O., March 25—At least two more days of argument propounded by defense attorneys in the Forest Glen, Inc., trial in federal district court here faced the jury today as the six-month-old litigation drew near a close.

Continuing his final argument today was Edwin Judy, attorney for seven of the defendants and co-counsel along with Lieutenant Governor Paul Herbert for Robert Marshall, vice president and general manager of Forest Glen, Inc.

Mr. Judy began his statements to the jury near the close of yesterday afternoon's session when he assailed the government for indicting the "wrong people."

Earlier in the day, Grant E. Mouser Jr., Marion attorney for 10 of the defendants, completed his final argument. Mr. Mouser reiterated earlier statements that the government made a mistake in indicting and bringing to trial the salesmen of the firm.

Before the close of today's session it was expected that Attorney Frank Widemann, also of Marion, would begin his final argument to the jury.

The present speed of the trial indicates that Judge Robert Nevin's charge to the jury at the end of the government's final argument should be forthcoming early next week.

Here's what YOU can do- to help America when you travel

Plan Mid-Week Trips To Ease Week-End Congestion!

SAVE TIME Pre-arrange Your Trip

SAVE MATERIALS Vital to War Efforts

AVOID CROWDS Go before Mid-Summer

YOU can travel today as before — but you'll be helping yourself as well as your country if you cooperate in several important ways. Wartime conditions tend to crowd transportation facilities on weekends, the only time many soldiers, sailors, war workers can travel. Taking mid-week trips will relieve congestion—for instance, shopping tours, social visits, business trips, recreational travel, even visits to men at camps. And if you'll arrange to get tickets, schedules, information well before departure time, you'll avoid delays and confusion.

If you're taking a vacation this year plan to go before the mid-summer rush. Going by bus instead of by car, you'll be saving vital materials America needs. Buses carry a passenger several times as far per pound of rubber, per gallon of fuel.

Economics, Not Politics, To Play Very Big Role in Peace

...including article ... series on post-... by Claude A. ... United States ... that the peace ... beyond political ... aspirations and ... international ... provide trade ... peoples.)

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Wide World Financial Editor

WASHINGTON, March 25—In ... peace to come after ... the paramount ob- ... men will find a ... for their work, ... and their brains. ... are planning this ... that the peace to ... be based not only on ... political aspirations—the ... boundaries — but upon ... economic arrangements ... permit the world to en- ... of its potential pro- ...

... President Wallace, chair- ... board of economic ... an important figure ... planning, wrote in ... issue of the Atlantic ...

"We are now aware, after our ... of the past 25 years, ... the most careful delineation ... boundaries is not in ... to prevent the world ... suffering the catastrophe of ... war. Nor can this be prevented simply by the establishment of an international league.

"We know now that the modern world must be recognized for what it is—an economic unit—and that wise arrangements must be made so that trade will be encouraged.

"The foundations of democracy can be rendered safe only when people everywhere have an opportunity to work and buy and sell with reasonable assurance that they will be able to enjoy the fruits of their work."

Blueprints Still Lacking

Detailed official blueprints for the order of things to come are necessarily lacking at this time, when we are still gripped in life and death battle. It is obvious that no plans will have meaning without victory, and to date the vital urgency of the far-flung battle has permitted of little opportunity for the United Nations to consider detailed arrangements for the peace.

Nonetheless, the eight points of the Atlantic charter, announced by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill last August, and subscribed to by the 26 United Nations in the declaration of Jan. 2, provide a broad basis of general principles.

The first three points of the charter set forth that no aggrandizement, territorial or other, and no territorial changes not in accord with freely expressed wishes of the peoples concerned, are sought; and the right of all people to choose the form of government under which they will live is respected. The sixth, seventh and eighth points call for establishment of a durable peace, freedom of the seas, and disarmament of aggressors pending establishment of "a wider and permanent system of general security."

But the fourth and fifth are vital economic points, declaring that the nations will endeavor "to further the enjoyment by all states, great and small, victor and vanquished, of access, on equal terms, to the trade and raw materials of the world," and that they desire "fullest collaboration between all nations in the economic field with the object of securing, for all, improved labor standards, economic advancement and society security."

Depression—Influence

What are the potentialities for development of economic well-being in the world? Since the depression of the '30s, it has become popular to talk of poverty in the midst of plenty, of the difficulty of distributing surpluses.

But is the world so productive? Colin Clark, British economist, in an exhaustive statistical survey in his book, "The Conditions of Economic Progress," says that on the contrary, the world as a whole, is a "wretchedly poor place." Indeed, he says "the most important problem remains the problem of increasing productive capacity."

Reducing incomes to terms of actual goods and services, he found in the decade ending with 1934, only in the United States, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Argentina, Great Britain and Switzerland, was there an average real income such as could be obtained in the United States with $20 or more a week. These countries represent only 10 per cent of the world's population.

For another group, including Germany and France, and having about 9 per cent of the earth's people, average real income was what could be had here for between $10 and $20 weekly. For 53 per cent, it was $5 or less, still in terms of what $5 would buy in America.

Nearly half the world's whole output of economically valuable goods and services was accounted for by the United States, Great Britain, France and Germany alone.

Unlimited Potentialities

Two-thirds of the world's entire output was produced in countries with less than one-third of the population.

Thus it appears, the potentialities for development are still virtually unlimited.

When victory has been won, some form of world association, it is generally agreed, must evolve. It may be a strengthened League of Nations. But there is much agreement that it cannot be pulled out of a hat at a peace conference, that its development must take time.

Meanwhile, there will be the most urgent demand for food, raw materials and machinery.

The United States and England will presumably control the world's shipping, and will have bought up most of the world's supplies of raw materials outside the area overrun by the axis. Their bargaining power at the peace table, if that is true, would be enormous.

The possible desires and ambitions of Russia, with her radically different government and economic structure, have been a source of some apprehension, but as some authorities see it, that country, widely devastated, will have an enormous problem of reconstruction at home.

Almost no one sees any prospect of a return to the free and unrestrained period before the first World war, when the economic balance wheel seemed to be the automatic gold standard.

The enormous development of government control in economic affairs in the past several years presents an historical trend which few expect to see reversed.

A Guide For Control

Nevertheless, it is the hope that it will serve as a guide and control for the democratic free enterprise system, rather than stifle or replace it.

"Historically, high living standards have developed in nations where initiative has been spurred by free enterprise.

One proposal receiving much attention is that the work in various undeveloped countries be carried on through government sponsored development corporations, financed roughly fifty-fifty by American and local capital.

In the era of expansion to come, planners foresee enormous demands for American goods abroad, and the need here for a big influx of foreign products.

That all tariffs can be immediately removed, or drastically reduced overnight, almost no one expects, but before the start of war, a considerable beginning had been made with Secretary Hull's reciprocal trade treaty program.

A significant agreement between Great Britain and the United States was signed only last Feb. 23, in which the principle was set forth that settlement of lease-lend accounts between the two countries, "shall be such as not to burden commerce between the two countries, but to promote mutually advantageous relations between them and betterment of worldwide economic conditions."

It concluded that conversations looking toward these objectives would be begun between the two governments "at an early convenient date."

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

A REPLY TO MR. ARNOLD

Editor of The Star: I could not help but feel a sting after reading the news story about Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general, in The Star of Saturday, March 21, "Power of Union Labor Attacked."

I believe that when you said "attacked," it was in what may be termed a brutal manner. I just wonder if Mr. Arnold ever spent any time as a laboring man, or if he ever remembers what a short time labor has had some legal rights. He knows we would never have hoped to have gained our present standards of living had it not have been for the long fight put up for our rights, and put on its feet by our leader, our President. The man with a heart for the poor and those afflicted. Otherwise we would still be under the heel of the crusher, at least for a time yet, but would win out for our rights as those laboring men are going to win out in this war. For the rights of our country.

I just wonder why it is that big business wants to squawk any time the laboring man wants five or ten cents more. Well, thanks to our leader, perhaps there won't be so many millionaires made in this war. And I am sure we are not going to kick if we do have to share it with Uncle Sam. We are glad to do it.

You know Mr. Arnold, no one is hurting you. And the farmer. Well, your interest is not in him. It seems to me you're pinch-hitting for a deep cause. But you will have to strike a better blow, for labor is the blood and life of the country and is used as such, and in the army in the past there were just buck privates. Today under our leader we have the same chance of being an officer as your son. And I believe that if our leader thought we were on the wrong side he would stop us, and until he does feel that we are wrong, we will never suffer from underhanded slaps. And when labor is called unfair, or as you might term it, exploiters and undemocratic, you have not only struck at the man that is doing all to put forth war materials. But the soldier in our tanks and behind the guns. They are fighting your fight as well as for the Americas.

We never did work under the wage paid in the lands we are fighting and what is more we never will. And we are glad to jump from $5 to $10 a day to $21 a month and do our bit over there.

I think your kind of talk is small potatoes, and in your big office would do better to work at it and not batter the boys that only want their share for their labor. And remember we have not hurt business, for you know as well as labor that in your position you do not patronize the small store keeper and we do. It is small wages that hurts him, and we spend our money with him. If big business raises prices we want more to meet them.

Get behind the right gun Mr. Arnold. Don't shoot at the foundation of the money-making big man, and that boy is the fellow who just sells the toil from his hands. He will have a fair wage or stop using them. You have a right to your view as well as any American, but I say, speak of labor with honor or keep quiet and we will think more of you.

CALL FROM 3RD LIST MAY COME BY JUNE

Hershey in Columbus Indicates Tapping of Group.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 25 — The army might dip into the approximately 9,000,000 men enrolled in the third selective service registration by June, says Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey.

The war department has expressed the fear that young men —21 to 27 years old—have been nearly exhausted from the first registration and that the average age of inductions will go steadily upward, the selective service director declared while here to address a meeting of trade association executives.

"If that proves to be the case during the next two months, we have agreed to permit a draw from the new '1' group, which contain both younger and older men," he said.

He estimated that only about 5 per cent of the registrants above 37 years old would be eligible for general military service.

"The army prefers younger men, 20, 21 and 22 years old, because they are more capable of learning and their physical coordination and ability to act quickly is greater than that of older men," he said.

"The oldsters frequently do a better job on the army's many routine tasks, however, because the youngsters grows tired of the monotony."

The army will make large inroads in the 1-B classification—men fit for limited military service—by mid-summer, Hershey continued, adding that all war agencies and industries must quit demanding "ideal men for the job" because there were not enough to go around.

"Everyone has a job to do and we must restrict non-essential production until it almost stops so as to free manpower for essential production and military service," he said.

He estimated 6,000,000 persons were employed in war industries, and that 15,000,000 would be needed by the end of the year.

18-YEAR-OLD CAT DIES

Special to The Star

GALION, March 25 — Rev. Philip Auer, minister of Peace Lutheran church, addressed members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at their meeting at the city building Tuesday. His topic was the "Fine Art of Courageous Living."

Rev. Auer made four suggestions for a firm foundation in life of individuals and the nation. These included a proper evaluation of human life, realization of the blessings of the past and the present, appreciation of personal relationships, and attention to the spiritual values of life.

Reports of past events were presented by Arthur C. Fair, Robert B. Wiseman, Chris Brown, Keith Neely and William MacAdam. Carl Schneider was appointed to organize a group to take first aid training from B. R. Taylor, certified instructor.

Two Escape in Crash Near Upper Sandusky

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, March 25 —Two Upper Sandusky men luckily escaped serious injury in an almost head-on collision a mile east of here Monday.

Both cars were badly damaged, Robert Miller's car overturning on the highway, while the auto driven by Miss Martha Jane Ellis skidded through the ditch and crashed into a fence.

LEARN THE TRUTH ABOUT BOWEL WORMS

The signs are misleading. Nobody is sure to escape. Worms can make real trouble.

Anybody, anywhere, can "catch" roundworms! So watch out for these signs in your child or yourself: unsteady stomach, sleeplessness, loss of weight, fidgety ways, nervousness. Get Jayne's Vermifuge if you even suspect roundworms. It expels stubborn worms, yet acts very gentle. If there are no worms, it won't hurt you, as a mild laxative. Jayne's is America's best known proprietary worm medicine; scientifically tested and used by millions for over a century. Be wise! Insist on Jayne's Vermifuge.

Are You Needlessly Suffering Constipation?

Many people think that constipation is "one of those things" you must put up with. That the only thing you can do is take a purge or cathartic—and hope it doesn't come soon again. How foolish that is if you, like millions of others, have the ordinary kind of constipation that's due to lack of "bulk" in the diet.

Kellogg's All-Bran is probably just what you need! This crisp, delicious cereal has the "bulk"-forming properties your intestines need to function "regularly." It gets at the cause of your trouble and corrects it — helps you get back to normal, easy elimination. Eat All-Bran regularly, drink plenty of water, and help free yourself from constipation. All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is not helped by this simple treatment, it's wise to see a doctor.

PORK CEILINGS NOW EFFECTIVE

Effect of Wholesale Price Control Is Awaited by Consumers.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 24—Wholesale pork price control began throughout the nation yesterday but meat and livestock trade experts withheld predictions as to the ultimate effect on prices housewives pay at retail counters and on farmers' returns from hogs.

The general assumption, however, was that ceilings on wholesale items, which are mid-way in the delicately adjusted hog-pork price balance, would have a stabilizing effect on conditions at each end—the retail trade and the livestock market. How it will [illegible] live hog cost [illegible]

[illegible] small, has an over-all effect on retail pork prices. One big concern, for example, [illegible] ing with the office of price administration order, has established 500 different ceilings. The various cuts—cured, fresh, frozen, and canned pork items—have ceilings as well as the different grades and brands of each cut.

Competitive Market

"This means there still will be a highly competitive market for pork, and the top packer will [illegible] market, as always, and the price ceilings will be as many as there are items to sell."

The temporary ceilings apply to approximately 90 per cent of the pork items sold and are equal to the highest wholesale price charged during the period March 3 to 7. Since that time the average price of live hogs has advanced more than 20 cents per 100 pounds but wholesale pork cuts have shown a varying trend, although livestock men expressed belief no item has risen above the ceiling. Wholesale fresh pork loins here are off as much as 2 cents a pound in some cases.

The butcher shops—the retail end of the pork trade—unaffected directly by the OPA order, will be governed in establishing prices at their counters by the same factors they have always had to consider, such overhead items as cost of store operation and materials. The only certainty will be that the pork they buy will not be higher than the ceiling.

Keep Price Balance

In the stockyards, packers, unable to raise pork prices, could not economically increase payments for live hogs, they said. Over the long period, they contend, there is a close adjustment between live and wholesale prices and this must be maintained if the processors are to continue operating economically. At the same time, they will be faced with the necessity of buying increased quantities of hogs to maintain the flow of pork into consumer channels and to lend-lease buyers.

Lard prices have been under control for some time and have been bid at ceilings for the past few weeks. The temporary ceilings on pork will prevail for 60 days and it was understood a permanent schedule then would be established. Packers have until April 6 to file price ceiling lists which they believe should apply to pork items.

Snap on covers of numerous colors and fabrics have been invented to change the colors of dining room chairs.

Hy-Way Rollarena Purchased; Being Remodeled for Opening in Few Weeks

Arthur E. Mallory To Be Manager for New Group of Owners.

ARTHUR E. MALLORY

The building housing the Hy-Way Rollarena, located on Harding Highway East, has been purchased by a group of eastern Ohio roller rink operators who have incorporated under the name of Hy-Way Rollarena, Inc.

Arthur E. Mallory, rink operator, has been engaged by the new owners to act as managing director. Mr. Mallory has had several years of experience in the amusement business. For several years he managed the Trianon Roller Rink at Alliance and is the general manager of Craig Beach Park located on Lake Milton, midway between Youngstown and Akron.

Mr. Mallory announced a new heating plant is being installed by the Indoe-Williams Co. of Akron at a cost of $5,000.

The opening of the rink is scheduled for the near future.

The building is being completely remodeled and redecorated throughout. Three hundred pairs of new skates have been bought as well as new equipment.

The rink will be open seven nights each week the year around with matinees on Saturday and Sunday afternoons. Wednesday and Friday nights have been set aside for groups and organizations wishing to hold private skating parties.

Miss Bertha Major has been employed as assistant to Mr. Mallory. She will be in charge of promotional work and will be the representative to arrange special parties for schools, factory clubs, church and fraternal organizations in addition to other groups wishing to hold their own skating parties.

Power . . . . . When And Where It's Needed!

• The amphibian tractor—a startling product of American industrial ingenuity delivers military power where it will do the most good.

The electric network—another example of industrial resourcefulness—connects operating electric companies and delivers electric power at points of need.

Built up by the business men who manage America's electric companies and produce ⅞ of America's power, this nation-wide web of electric lines has proved its vital value in the war emergency.

Because of this foresight, the electric power to put tank and plane plants, shipyards and arsenals into production was ready almost overnight.

As the demand for power zoomed up and up, new construction helped to meet it. Last year, the electric industry installed over 2½ million more horsepower—enough to light one-fourth of the nation's homes!

Careful, planned production will continue—we pledge it—until the war is won — until America's tractors turn again from dealing death to planting peaceful fields.

that Australia would function as an offensive base in the ultimate process of driving Japan from the southwestern Pacific," he said.

"This is in fact our goal, but let us not exaggerate the speed with which we can reach it. We must first assume that Australia is held."

Curtin said the dominion had given Gen. Douglas MacArthur authority of "the highest order" to carry out his plans as the new United Nations supreme commander and that offensive action was now being taken "with the powerful aid of the United States armed forces."

U. S. Planes Active

With U. S. fighter planes now sweeping far out over New Guinea, in the battle for the approaches to Australia, only three Japanese bombers ventured to attack Port Moresby in the southern part of the island today—one of the weakest enemy raids there yet.

A Washington communique disclosed that American fighter pilots roaring across the 300-mile-wide Torres straight between Australia and New Guinea had escorted bombers in an attack on Japanese - occupied Lae, New Guinea, 400 miles from the nearest Australian base.

The war department said a force of six U. S. bombers and nine P-40 fighters destroyed three Japanese heavy bombers, 10 fighters and two unidentified aircraft in the raid, which occurred Monday.

Other allied aerial smashes raised the total of Japanese planes destroyed to 65.

Kunming dispatches said American volunteer group "Flying Tigers" had knocked 40 grounded planes out of action and slain most of their pilots as they ran toward the cockpits in a surprise raid at dawn yesterday on the Japanese - occupied airport of Chiengmai, Thailand.

Some planes were set afire; others were riddled by machine-gun bullets.

U. S. Flier Lost

The raiders' elation, however, was dampened by the loss of Squadron Leader Lieut. John Newkirk. His plane crashed at the end of a low dive. Fellow pilots expressed belief he was the victim of a truck-mounted anti-aircraft gun.

Of yesterday's Japanese raid on Corregidor, at the mouth of Manila bay, the Tokyo newspaper Nichi Nichi declared the island fortress "was completely enveloped in smoke as Japanese bombs were poured on enemy positions and silenced anti-aircraft batteries."

By official American accounts, however, damage was slight and three of the 54 heavy bombers participating were destroyed.

The U. S. navy reported that two four-stacker destroyers, the Pillsbury and Fisall, were considered lost in Java waters after having been missing since early March. Each normally was manned by 145 men. Their loss increased to 21 the announced total of American naval vessels destroyed.

Chinese forces and small British units in central Burma were reported heavily engaged around strategic Toungoo. A New Delhi communique said Japanese patrols had cut the Toungoo-Pyinmana road in a flanking action above Toungoo, but predicted "the situation will be cleared up today."

Life Gets Harder As Former Tiffin Man Reaches 106

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 25 — The "first 100 years were the easiest," commented Arpad Sabados, soldier of fortune who faced death in half a dozen wars, as he celebrated his 106th birthday today.

"I was never sick and never had a cold," said Sabados, a former Tiffin, O., resident. Since reaching 100, however, he has experienced minor illnesses, but still eats heartily and is in good physical condition.

Sabados, a native of Hungary saw Franz Josef crowned as the last emperor of Austria. He went to Tiffin in 1870 to open a dairy and later enter the packing business. He retired several years ago.

Trained in a Hungarian military school, Sabados was a captain in the infantry when he left his native land in 1858 and joined Napoleon, 3rd, and Victor Emmanuel of Italy in the fight against the Austrians.

Later he fought in Italy and Egypt before the war between the states attracted him to this country, where he helped the union and received a gold dollar from Lincoln.

The end of the Civil war put the soldier out of a job and he went to Mexico to aid Jaurez in the overthrow of Maximilian.

In 1867 Captain Sabados went to Russia, where he fought for the Emperor Alexander against the Turks. Ten years later he gave up fighting, came back to the United States and settled at Tiffin.

Report Ford Offers Post to Lindbergh

Navy Force Blasts Jap Islands

struction of six enemy bombers O'Hare was one of the fliers operating from an aircraft carrier in the task force.

Reports of the damage inflicted on Wake Island suggested to naval experts here it was so effective as possibly to have wrecked virtually all the installations of importance which the Japanese had succeeded in placing there since they captured the place.

The marines who defended Wake established one of the most heroic records of action ever recorded in the defense of an American position.

The garrison there consisted of 13 officers, 365 marines, one naval medical officer and six naval medical ratings. In the 11 days which the garrison held out it lost heavily in its original equipment which consisted of 12 fighter planes, six 5-inch guns, twelve 3-inch anti-aircraft guns, eighteen 50-caliber anti-aircraft guns and thirty 30-caliber anti-aircraft guns, plus the usual smaller arms and six searchlights.

Yet with their planes and guns, the marines were able to destroy seven Japanese warships, including a cruiser and three destroyers.

Marcus island, the Japanese name of which is Minami Tori Shima, is a triangular point of land about five miles around, wooded, and lying on the average about 60 feet above high water. It is bordered by white, sandy beach with breakers extending off its west, northeast and east points. Until the present report little had been heard of it in this war.

Navy Spokesman Gives First Hand Account

By WENDELL WEBB
AP Correspondent

PEARL HARBOR—(Delayed)—Two sudden, savage and "highly successful" assaults on Wake and Marcus islands — the latter only 950 miles from Tokyo —were disclosed in first-hand accounts by navy spokesmen today.

Several Japanese were taken prisoner, and coastal and shore installations at both outposts were battered for hours from the sea and air.

The attack on Wake was on Feb. 24 — two months after a small garrison of U. S. marines was overwhelmed to end a 14-day stand which remains one of the highlights of heroism of this war.

The raid on Marcus was by flare-light in the early hours of March 4.

Two Planes Lost

No United States ships were damaged.

Two planes were lost, one in each attack. Anti-aircraft fire—the only major opposition encountered—downed both of them.

The prisoners were picked up at Wake Island in debris-laden waters after two Japanese patrol boats were bombed, shelled and sunk. At Wake, too, the entire aerial strength found was destroyed—three four-engined seaplanes.

Shore batteries were silenced, fuel barges and [illegible] sunk, and fuel storage [illegible] ground hangars [illegible] were demolished.

At Marcus—[illegible] stone from Japan [illegible] dated islands in the Pacific—the destruction included [illegible] station, hangars, storages [illegible] tion and fuel. A radio [illegible] air base was bombed [illegible] aged. No planes were [illegible]

An official navy spokesman described the attack as "[illegible] cleanly-completed."

His cryptic recital:

"Marcus was attacked by aircraft bombardment [illegible] the day that flare illumination was used. An airbase in advanced stages of construction [illegible] on the island. No enemy aircraft was found present, [illegible] enemy opposition of [illegible] heavy anti-aircraft fire was encountered.

Installations Destroyed

"The attack accounted for the destruction of hangars, storage houses, ammunition [illegible] and gasoline storages, a radio [illegible] and considerable damage to the nearly-complete air field.

"One of our planes was shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

Navy spokesman stressed that Marcus was potentially a [illegible] valuable base, for advantage as well as for surface patrol and [illegible] ating in the defense of Japan itself.

The island roughly [illegible],000 miles northwest of Wake and 3,000 miles from Pearl Harbor, and is in the same general area as the island of Guam which the Japanese seized last December. In one sense, Marcus is Japan's Hawaii as a strategic outpost for the mainland.

It is no secret that the Marcus attack was regarded as significantly in Tokyo that lights of that city were blacked out for several nights afterwards.

The raids were conducted by task forces of the U. S. Pacific fleet—aircraft, carriers, cruisers and destroyers—which have been on the move constantly in carrying out the promise of high naval mission, would augment the bond issue.

Increased need for enlarged hospital capacity resulting from growing activity in connection with stepped-up war product on in this area in coming months was discussed in connection with the hospital addition, but, disposing this angle of the need for an addition, Mr. Dorsey said of the decision made last night, "This puts the board on record as not being arbitrative or combative."

Mr. Kette, commenting on council's action Monday night, said, "It must be a follow-up of Rayburn's (Thomas W. Rayburn, Marion architect) who said two weeks ago the contract wasn't legal."

In a general discussion among the board members, the architect and Mayor Sharp, it was brought out that continued delay in getting action on the project involves not only the problem of constantly rising prices of construction materials, but also the question of availability of some critical materials.

At one point in the discussion of the contract before Mr. McLaughlin said he would go before council, Mr. Kette declared:

"If I had my way I would recall them and turn the whole thing over to council and Rayburn," to which Mr. Brown replied, "I'd be a traitor, who'd step up and object."

"You should have heard the criticism of the contract by city council," was Mayor Sharp's reply to a statement by Mr. McLaughlin as to the contents of the contract presented at the council meeting Monday night.

The group spent some time going over drawings of the proposed addition to the hospital.

No Disagreement—Why Bicker?

ONE of the things war is supposed to do is stimulate unity. Everybody works toward the same goal. Petty differences are forgotten in a common effort.

This can happen between labor and management in the United States. It can happen between management and management, and it can happen between labor and labor. Petty differences can be forgotten.

It has happened already. The automobile industry has shucked the throat-cutting that has characterized its operations and is pooling its resources for war production.

In local communities, a lot of the free-hand knifing formerly carried on by rival labor organizations was outlawed for the duration—before, not after, word was passed down from above that the fight between AFL and CIO was to be cooled down for the sake of the war effort.

All over this country citizens are getting their heads together and buckling down for the long pull. Only one thing can interfere.

There must be a curb on bickering. The animosities and prejudices and grudges that always are good for one more dirty dig must be put away till there's nothing more important to do than agitate them.

This is not the time to swap insults and kicks in the shins. This is the time to say to the other fellow, "Brother, what we think of each other has no bearing on what some fellows abroad think of both of us. When we get through beating their ears off, we can go to work on each other, if we still feel that way about it."

In the last few days, during discussion of certain issues growing out of the rising resentment of a die-hard attitude on the 40-hour week in wartime, there have been some things said that had better been left unsaid. Yet, even on this hot and ticklish question there is no fundamental disagreement. All parties concerned have a common interest in war production.

It is a good time to remember that nothing pleases the enemy so much as evidence that Americans may fall to bickering when they should be producing. This is an occasion for unity; this is war. Bickering may be a sacred privilege of Americans, but during wartime it is just one more right to be suspended voluntarily for the common welfare.

Decision for the Men on Bataan

THE citizens of the United States who are safe at home will leave the decision about surrendering to Japan to the men on Bataan. They also will give odds that the men on Bataan will not surrender.

They may be defeated; defeat always has been a probability of their last-ditch defense. They may be virtually exterminated; that also has been one of the probabilities of their situation.

But their countrymen are betting they will not surrender. The Americans and Filipinos on Bataan can have no illusions about their fate if they surrender. Nor can their countrymen have any illusions.

It is pointed out that in the Far Eastern warring, the occidental mind has no means of comprehending the behavior of the oriental mind, governed by a different code of ethics. The reverse also is true. The Japanese, it is safe to guess, won't be able to understand why the honorable gentlemen on Bataan, with a chance to surrender, are being so boorish as to want to fight it out.

Vichy's Promises

WHILE VICHY France has regained a certain amount of dignity by the conduct of the trials at Riom, the fact remains it is a puppet state. There would have been no trials, unless Germany had hoped to use them for its own purposes.

This is the background for popular understanding of Washington's ticklish game with the French on Martinique. It is hard to take seriously Vichy's protests about its good intentions. It is hard not to believe that the Germans are not exploiting every possibility of doing damage to United States shipping and that Martinique is not one of the possibilities.

It will be a triumph if the French can be blocked out of the war and made as useless to Germany as they have become to the United States. But if anything happens to the plan to do it—if it turns out that this government was played for a sucker—it will be the people's turn to remind the government that they never took stock in Vichy's promises. Only a diplomat can make himself believe that Germany is going to leave any power of decision to a government that exists on German sufferance.

HELPFUL, AT LEAST.

At Christmas I heard of a man who bought a Vermont attic for $100. He wanted the fun of cleaning out the hoarded things of four thrifty generations. The new house-owner thought him mad, but useful.—Leon Whipple in Survey Graphic.

PROOF OF CAPACITY

Nobody is awed now when there is talk of running the war debt up to $100,000,000,000. We're that used to money. A nice round sum $100,000,000,000 would make, and it would be by way of showing forthcoming generations what a democracy can do in a pinch.—Jack Warwick in The Toledo Blade.

News Behind the News

Production Up in February but Lags Behind President's Objectives.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, March 25—Officials are fairly well satisfied with production in February. It is not quite up to the President's war objectives, but it was 17 per cent over January and rose at the most rapid rise of any month since defense started.

Total expenditure $2,300,000,000. Lack of sufficient parts, scrap and some materials kept it from going more.

The first quarter will thus be thrown behind the President's goal, and added speed the next three quarters will be necessary.

Labor Policy

Some army and navy production officials (Assistant Secretaries Patterson, Bard, etc.) have met with Labor Secretary Perkins to try to start a statement of government labor policy. They are not getting far.

Miss Perkins thought about the only thing she could put in such a statement is that strikes last week involved only one three hundredths of one per cent of defense workers (something like 35 men). This is true but it so happens these men were making precision parts for bomb and gun sights.

One reason why labor discussion has reached such a high pitch at this time (aside from the few slow downs and strikes) is because many large wage and hour contracts are coming due.

Axis Propaganda

It is the custom of fulminators now to explode daily with fears about what axis propaganda is doing to us, but a swift analytical look at what is coming out of Berlin, Rome and Tokyo will show it is mostly rat cheese. Lift your nose to this following typical excerpts:

Nazis to North America: "The North American continent stands today under the menace of a cataclysm horrendous in its potentialities. The cataclysm is Jewish Bolshevism - Communism." (Same old stuff).

A character calling himself Paul Revere from Berlin: "Donald Nelson, not content with your present production speed, demands you work 24 hours a day." (Imagine this palpable canard addressed to workers who are now involved in national discussion of overtime on the 8-hour-day, 5-day-week.)

Rome: "The spirit of the American people reminds us of the spirit of France in the winter of '39 and '40." Congress refused to modify the law limiting the work week to 40 hours." (Notice this is exactly opposite what Berlin broadcast and erroneously claims work is limited to 48-hour week).

Jap commentator: "Your country could have done better to have followed Hoover: There was security in the policy of moderation."

Paul Revere: "There is yet an eleventh-hour chance to tear the five-pointed star of Moscow from the dome of the capitol and to purge our splendid land of its traducers." (Hohum, there are still 48 stars in the flag on the Capitol dome.)

The only thing significant in all this is that it would not fool a two-day-old mouse and its import is altogether different from the domestic objections you hear from critics of this government in this country.

Misinformation

More serious than this type of axis propaganda, to the success of our production war effort, is the better - intended misinformation circulated by some of our own hair-triggered zealots. The following is an example from the New York newspaper P M, in an article signed John A. Rice:

"The revolution is on now. Donald Nelson began it when he announced that in defense industries the boss-worker relationship was over, that it would no longer be one bossing and the other bossed, but both working together as equals."

If there is one thing which could tear down our war effort faster than any other, it is the acceptance of this unfounded doctrine. Nelson never said anything like it. He said the opposite.

He has repeated at least three times in speeches and elsewhere that his labor-management committees are not designed to let labor invade the management field or the management invade labor's, but were solely designed to promote cooperation for production.

Extreme caution has been practiced by Nelson to keep this erroneous impression from encouraging the suspicions of some managers that they might be losing control of their business by following his program.

If such contrary statements inspired workers to try to become bosses instead of producers and teased our soldiers of production into trying to become generals, they would cause more trouble on the production battleline than the axis has been able to do yet.

Where Nazis May Strike Next

Wide World Features

SOMETHING is going on in Norway where behind closed ports and with powerful battleships Tirpitz, Admiral Scheere and Lutzow and the aircraft carrier Graf Zeppelin sate in northern waters, Hitler seems to be planning an offensive stroke. The emphasis on naval preparations leads military experts to expect an attempt to cut off American and British supply lines to Russia at the point where they join to swing north of Norway. While some experts see a possible stroke against Allied bases on Iceland, the consensus anticipates a drive on Russian-bound shipping to weaken Stalin's armies for the overland spring push.

The Guthrie Case

Production for War Is Issue.

BECAUSE you'll be hearing about it for a long time to come, the Guthrie case needs to be understood. It is a burning issue in Washington, but it goes a lot deeper than an ordinary government squabble. That's why it will be probed and investigated. That's why Walter Lippmann wrote recently that the way it was handled would be a critical test of the administrative ability of Donald M. Nelson, chief of the war production board.

Robert R. Guthrie is a hard-boiled merchant from Paducah, Ky., and at one time was a large stockholder in White Sewing Machine. He sold his stock and left his store, however, to work in Washington as a defense official. In the reorganization of OPM which resulted in creation of WPB, Guthrie ended up as a deputy chief of industry branches, of which there were three serving under Philip Reed, former General Electric executive.

Guthrie was ambitious. Furthermore, he believed in all-out production for war and he did not believe in business-as-usual. With hammer and tongs he started after the industries under his supervision. His responsibility was durable goods—radios and refrigerators, wool, textiles carpets and a few others. His job was to get all these industries converted to war production just as fast as possible. That, apparently, was his undoing. The industries screamed they were being persecuted by Guthrie. Authority was taken away from him until he ended up as chief of a minor branch, clothing and textiles. Fed up, he resigned.

Guthrie will be duly investigated and committees will make recommendations and findings. What will come out of this typical Washington tempest no one can predict. But the Guthrie case is bigger than a mere administrative squabble affecting one man.

Industrialists can argue themselves red, white and blue in the face in citing arguments as to why they should not be converted. Sure, it's going to hurt. It will hurt management and it will hurt labor. Sure, also, the war can be lost if it isn't done.

The approach thus far has been too much along the line of "How much civilian goods can we make for how long a time?" instead of "How few civilian goods can we make for how short a time and still get by?"

It looks as though there would still have to be some changes made in such thinking.

Training U. S. Pilots

Army Hit Jackpot in Plan Adopted Years Ago.

(Every great project has a basic philosophy. Here's the idea behind the nation of instruction given American's growing air force, as outlined by Wide World Aviation Editor Devon Francis back from a five-week tour of army and navy training fields. This is the second of a series. Next: Teaching our youth.)

By DEVON FRANCIS
Wide World Aviation Editor

NEW YORK, March 25—Consciously or unconsciously, the United States army hit the jackpot when, years ago, it contrived a training program for its warplane pilots.

It wanted superlative fliers. Happily enough, it not only got good fliers but also, as a natural consequence, good leaders. Good leadership, as any military man will tell you, is indispensable to a war effort.

It has been said of many things since September, 1939, that each of itself might win the war. The way this country trains its pilots will not win the war single-handed, but it certainly will be a big contributing factor.

My first exposure to the system during a five-week trip to South Carolina, Florida, Alabama and Georgia training fields came at Orangeburg, S. C., site of the Hawthorne School of Aeronautics. There Beverly Howard, one time star air show performer, is running a civilian contract school for the army to give neophytes primary training.

Lessons Even for Veterans

A private pilot with 2,600 hours of flying under his belt was going through the mill to get an instructor's rating so he could teach at the school. He had just come back from a flight.

"Whew!" he exclaimed.

"I though I could fly, but I've got to learn all over again.

"I was told to climb to 300 feet and start a turn. I started the turn at 290 feet by the altimeter. Know what happened? The army officer with me snapped, 'I said 300 feet, and I meant 300 feet!'"

Precision and discipline are all-essential in army flight training. The army figures that if a man can learn those, he is well on his way toward becoming a military pilot. If he can't, his case is hopeless.

The army air forces want men who can think and act fast. Their snap judgment must be good judgment. A small fighter plane contains only one man. He must be his own general, once the enemy is engaged.

In talks with dozens of aviation cadets, I did not discover one who was afraid of going aloft. But another kind of fear, and a healthful one, was among them—they were afraid they might fail the course.

Put Under Pressure

The candidates are put under pressure simply to see how they will react in emergencies. A man who can't take pressure has no business in the cockpit of a warplane, whether it be a fighter, bomber, torpedo or observation plane.

For morale effect, the army makes each man believe he is a standout. If he is a standout, he will go into combat confident yet wary, brave yet cautious.

The commanding officer of the training detachment at one primary school regularly greets incoming classes with these words:

"I want you men to look around at the other men about you. Study them. They are your fellow students. They ought to interest you a great deal—because one out of every three of you probably won't finish the course."

"But that must give them the jitters," I protested.

"On the contrary," replied the captain in charge, "when a man flunks out, his fellow students look on themselves as superior men. It helps morale."

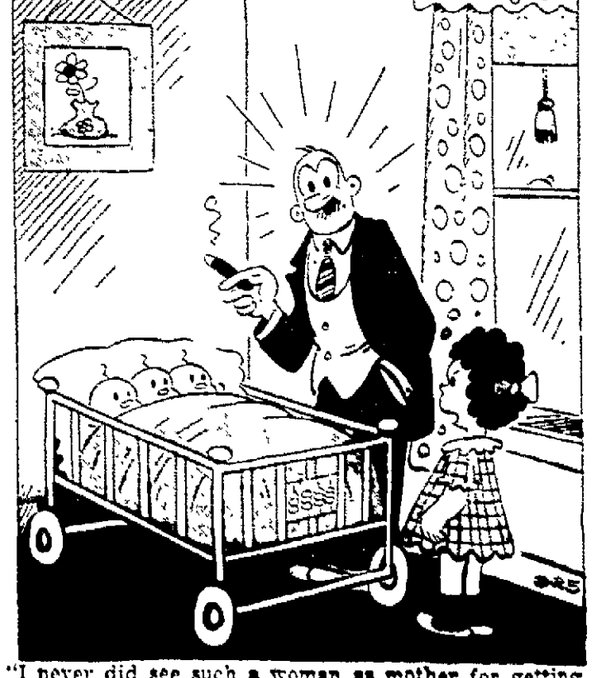
That kind of approach is bound to contribute to the upbuilding of a great air force.

Car Improvement

SAN FRANCISCO — That familiar street car sign "don't talk to the motorman" soon may have a companion:

"Don't flirt with the conductor."

Increasing loss of men to the armed services and defense work may necessitate the hiring of women fare collectors, says Edward G. Cahill, manager of city utilities.



"I never did see such a woman as mother for getting bargains!"

That Was Denver

With the Help of a New Map We Have Reconstructed What Seems Almost Utopian Today.

By DAMON RUNYON

OLD-TIME Denverites would get a touch of nostalgia from a map that has been sent us by H. A. Gauthier of 10 Monroe street, New York City.

He says he lived in Denver for many years up to 1900. He became interested in the arguments that blew up in this column from time to time in the past about the location of certain spots in the Mile-High City.

So he wrote to J. W. McElhany, another old timer of Denver, and still in the stock brokerage business there at 17th and Stout streets. Mr. McElhany sat down and drew this map. It covers the business section of the town and indicates the exact locations of some of those places we have argued about, including the Silver Dollar saloon.

That was Billy Duncan's place near the corner of 17th and Lawrence. It was the one that had the silver dollars in the floor tiling. We were always pretty sure of that location because the business office of the Rocky Mountain News, where we got paid off on Monday, was right across the street. They generally pay in gold and silver, but we remember one bad times year when they paid in scrip, and it was good in Duncan's.

TORTONI'S, which was on Arapahoe not far from 16th, and was run by Numa Vaz and Phil Goloing, also had dollars in the floor of the bar. The floors in both Tortoni's and Duncan's were four-inch black and white tiles. The dollars were in the black tiles.

The Tortoni dollars were removed when they wore smooth, but those in Duncan's were constantly replaced.

Mr. McElhany recalls to our memory the great Chinese dragon cigar lighter that stood at the cigar stand in the front part of Duncan's. He also remembers that no policeman was ever called to settle trouble in Duncan's, which opened an hour later and closed earlier than any other place in town. Old timers from Leadville hung out there.

The bar in the Albany hotel at 17th and Stout was Buffalo Bill Cody's favorite spot. "Soapy" Smith's last Denver hangout before going to Skagway, where he was killed, was the Tivoli at Market and 17th. Mr. McElhany indicates the location of Con Kelleher's joint on Market near 19th, but kindly refrains from mentioning that we used to drop in there occasionally to see Con. He was known as "Coon the Fox."

THE map begins at the Union depot and goes uptown to the Navarre gambling house and restaurant where Paul Whiteman made his headquarters as a young fellow. Taking in territory between 15th and 20th streets, it shows where Chase and Gaylord's old Palace theater stood on 15th, between Blake and Wazee, a hotter of its day, and the old Central theater between 18th and 19th on Market. That was also a sizzler.

But the place it indicates that is warmest in our memory is the Manhattan restaurant on Larimer between 16th and 17th, the closing of which last year was practically tragedy to old Denver old timers. The Missouri house used to be on one side and Jimmy Murphy's on the other, and down the street was Vaso Chuco's famous arcade, a gambling house and saloon.

MR. McELHANY mentions that in 1910 prices for steaks at the Manhattan (they were steaks, too) were as follows: porterhouse, 15 cents; tenderloin, 20 cents; T-bone, 25 cents; porterhouse, 45 cents, all including potatoes, sauces, bread and butter and salad. You got the coffee you wanted for a nickel, and bowl of soup or a quarter cut of pie for the same price. The scale of prices was given to Mr. McElhany by "Pete th' Greek," day head waiter and one of the heirs to the Manhattan.

The prices were raised five cents, except for pies, in 1915. On the closing day, the Manhattan served 3,500 people and ran out of steak and roast beef. It was opened in 1897 by Rothhorn and Ryan and for 44 years few persons visited Denver who did not give the Manhattan a play and rave afterward about the service served there.

Spring Brings Revival of Nazi Invasion Threat

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

The warning given in the British house of commons by Sir John Anderson, member of the war cabinet, that the Germans may attempt to invade England this spring isn't just "sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal."

Of course, talk of invasion is one of those things which come to life with the first good weather and last until the fall fogs and storms savage the English channel. Still, it would be folly to treat it as a cry of wolf merely because Hitler thus far has held his hand.

An effort at invasion, certainly is a possibility. I should say, however, that such an extremely hazardous operation would be undertaken by Hitler as an act of desperation if things go badly for him on the Russian front.

If he could knock England out by a lightning stroke, while standing the Reds off, he would have dealt the allies a catastrophic blow and could then devote all his energy to the Bolshevists.

Hitler's apparent strategy is to try again to break into the Caucasus and the Middle East to get supplies. That's his logical route to victory. Preparations point to this being his major effort—either a direct smash through the Russian left flank into the Caucasus oil fields, or a movement through Turkey—maybe both.

Should the present murderous Russian offensive develop to block this program, or as the Bolshevists predict, to threaten a debacle in Hitler's ranks, then he might make a colossal gamble with an attempt to crush England.

The Nazi leader is in better shape for a blow at England now than he is likely to be again. He has a vast fleet of invasion barges ready. For months now his air force has been largely inactive, presumably being overhauled and tuned up for the spring fighting. Meanwhile his factories have been pouring out new and more powerful warplanes, and transport gliders are reported to have been manufactured in great numbers. He has the troops, and he has a pretty husky navy.

Personally, I don't believe Hitler can do it, but it must be admitted that an attempt would produce the greatest battle of its kind since time began, involving a vast conglomeration of land, sea and air forces. And we mustn't overlook that the Japanese have developed a new technique of invasion across water. Hitler will have learned much from them, and may even get encouragement from their success.

Farmers Hear About War Project

ably get a chance to buy back the furnace cheaply a little later.

Q. If my land is divided, can I move my house across the road to the part of my farm the government doesn't acquire? A. I'd say yes, eventually, through one means or another.

Q. What about fences? A. They're considered a permanent part of the farm, but you'll get first chance to buy them back cheaply if they're removed.

Q. When will we have to move? A. In some cases, maybe within 15 days. In others, maybe from 60 to 90 days. Administrative buildings are now going up, and some land is naturally affected by this work.

Q. What about cemeteries? A. All of the bodies will be moved by a licensed undertaker either to another cemetery or to a newly-established location for the cemetery to be moved. Markers will be restored. Every possible consideration will be shown in handling this. (One rural cemetery is located on the land to be acquired by the government.)

Q. Why wasn't cheap land used instead of good farm land? A. Poor soil is used for manufacturing plants whenever possible, but the government needed this land for several reasons, some of which I don't know. I do know that transportation facilities and other such factors entered into the selection.

Q. Will any payment be made to farmers for their expenses in moving their personal property to a new location? A. No.

Q. What about the effect on the value of land near this project? A. This project should raise rather than lower the value of surrounding land. For one thing, I understand no buildings will be placed within half a mile of the boundaries. For another, I understand this project is not expected to be a dangerous one like some explosive projects are. I also understand it will be of a permanent nature and will continue to give employment after the war.

Q. Is the government buying land in several parts of the county? A. Not that I know of—there's just one area I know about now.

Q. What will happen to the buildings now on the land. A. Some of them may be moved. Most of them probably will have to be dismantled. A salvage section will be set up and the present owners will get first consideration if there's anything they wish to buy back.

Q. How's this going to affect our tax duplicate—isn't government-owned land free from taxation? A. Yes, but in my opinion the project will so enrich Marion county that it will more than offset any immediate loss in the tax duplicate.

Q. How many will be employed? A. I expect 5,000, maybe 10,000, maybe 15,000 will figure in the construction job. That will bring a lot of money into Marion county. I know there will be a certain amount of vice, a certain amount of crowding for a while but the worst of that will be over by the time the summer ends. I think the plant will be finished by fall. Incidentally, people moving from this area will be given first choice of jobs.

Q. Where are they going to put all the people? A. That's a problem, and I imagine in connection with it there will be some government housing work done in Marion.

Q. What is the government going to pay per acre for this land? A. There isn't any flat acreage rate—each farm is appraised individually.

Q. Will the fairgrounds be affected? A. No. The fairgrounds are out of the picture.

Q. Will the area be fenced in? A. Probably.

After the question and answer period, Mr. Piers thanked the farmers for the cooperation they have shown and urged them to take up any individual problems they may have either with the appraisers or with his office, which is located on North State street next to the Chamber of Commerce office.

Agency Aid Offered

D. T. Mills, county superintendent of schools who presided at the meeting, introduced C. P. Harper, chairman of the Marion county war board, who said the board and the various agencies with which it works may be able to be of assistance to some of the farmers who will be obliged to find new homes. He listed the agencies as the county agricultural extension office in the basement of the postoffice, the Production Credit association office in the McNeal-Wolford building, the Farm Security Administration office in the Loetonia building, the agricultural adjustment administration office at 220 East Church street, the Rural Electric Association (Foster Davidson of the Upper Sandusky road) and the CCC camp east of Marion.

Invocation was spoken by Dr. S. M. Ingmire, pastor of Epworth Methodist church, and several musical numbers were played by a trumpet quartet made up of Doyle Cook, Carroll Conklin, Carl Kramer and Paul Smith, all of the Waldo school.

Italy Sends Battleship Against British Convoy

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 25 — Prime Minister Winston Churchill disclosed today that the Italian naval force which set out to attack a British Mediterranean convoy on its way to Malta Sunday comprised "one of the most modern and powerful battleships afloat," six cruisers and a flotilla of destroyers.

The British force consisted of five light cruisers and destroyers, according to a message of congratulation sent by Churchill to Rear Admiral P. L. Vian, commander of the British force.

TEACHERS' TENURE LAW IS UPHELD

Supreme Court Rules Ohio Measure Constitutional.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 25—The Ohio supreme court today held the new teachers' tenure law constitutional.

Boards of education were ordered to give teachers contracts in decisions covering four cases.

Six of the seven judges concurred in the decision. Judge Gilbert Bettman of Cincinnati, who is ill, did not participate.

John W. Craig, teacher of commercial subjects in Cleveland schools, won a contract for the present school term although he is 65 years old, over the retirement age fixed by the school board.

Constitutionality of the law was challenged in this case by the board. Craig claimed he was entitled to a continuing contract inasmuch as he had been employed continuously prior to "passage of the act," which the court held was on June 2, 1941, when it was signed by the governor.

The decision also ordered the Mt. Orab village school district, Brown county to give a contract to Oscar Bishop, sixth grade teacher. One of the chief points decided in this case was that schools of fewer than 600 pupils are required to give continuing contracts to eligible teachers.

Another teacher to win a continuing contract was Louella Brown of Elyria High school. She was refused a contract because of a board rule against employing married women.

Russians Put Nazis Through Meat Grinder

By The Associated Press

Adolf Hitler's invasion armies, reported newly reinforced by 600,000 troops, were pictured in Soviet dispatches as "going through a meat grinder" in opposing Russian attacks which have killed 80,000 Germans since Feb. 6.

Nazi casualties were cited as follows:

Central (Moscow) front—40,000 killed Feb. 6-March 5.

Leningrad front—10,000 killed March 9-22.

Northwest (Kalinin) front—14,000 killed Feb. 22-March 10.

South and Southwest fronts—10,000 killed March 7-12.

Hitler's field headquarters again stressed defensive actions, acknowledging strong new Russian attacks on the Kerch peninsula in the Crimea, in the Donets river basin of the Ukraine, and on the northwest front.

The high command said Nazi troops inflicted heavy losses on Russian forces east of Kharkov, the Soviet "Pittsburgh," 400 miles below Moscow.

No Signs of Offensive

Still no hint was forthcoming that Hitler had launched or was about to begin his heralded spring offensive.

Russian front-line dispatches said violent battles were developing in Smolensk province, west of Moscow, with Red army troops recapturing 12 "districts"—similar to United States counties—and challenging the Germans in 16 others.

On the Ukraine front, Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's scout troops were reported to have penetrated Tagaurog, Nazi-held port on the Sea of Azov, exchanged fire with the garrison and tossed grenades into the barracks before retiring.

Soviet guerrilla fighters were credited with killing 4,207 Germans near Orel, key German base 200 miles south of Moscow.

DEATH CLAIMS REV. WITTHOFF

Body of Former Marion Pastor To Be Brought Here for Burial.

Rev. F. C. Witthoff, 90, former pastor of First Evangelical and Reformed church, died today at 9 a. m. in his home at Terre Haute, Ind., after a brief illness of infirmities of advanced age.

He was an uncle of R. E. Bauman of 737 East Center street.

The funeral will be conducted Thursday at 3 p. m. in Terre Haute. Early Friday morning the funeral party will leave for Marion, arriving here for a burial service at 11 a. m. in the family lot in Marion cemetery.

Rev. W. E. Huckeriede, pastor of the Terre Haute church which Rev. Witthoff established, and Rev. F. H. Wierth, present pastor of First Evangelical and Reformed church, will officiate. There will be a committal service by officers of Marion Lodge No. 70, F. and A. M., of which Rev. Witthoff was a 50-year member.

Rev. Witthoff served First church from 1892 to about 1912 and during his service a new parsonage and church were built. The church was a brick structure on the site of the present church on South Prospect street, and was used until the spring of 1927 when it was razed to make way for a new house of worship.

A native of Cincinnati, Rev. Witthoff was educated at Heidelberg college in Tiffin.

Before coming to Marion he held pastorates in Indiana and organized a church at Sulphur Springs, O. From here he went to a church in Louisville, Ky., and then to Terre Haute where he established a church and was its pastor until he retired 20 years ago. His wife, Mrs. Margaret A. Clippinger Witthoff, died 14 years ago in Terre Haute and an adopted son, Earl Witthoff, of Cleveland, died 12 years ago.

Rev. Witthoff was a member of Marion Lodge No. 70, F. and A. M., Marion Chapter No. 62, R. A. M., Marion Council No. 22, R. and S. M., and Marion Commandery No. 36, Knights Templar.

Several years ago he returned to Marion to receive his 50-year medal from Marion lodge of Masons. Until a few years ago he visited in Marion annually with his nephew.

Two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Kruse and Mrs. Ann Sprague, both of Cincinnati, survive.

MT. GILEAD MAN ON NATIONAL BOARD

To Serve with Advisory Group on Machine Tools.

H. J. Whiting of Mt. Gilead, works manager for the Hydraulic Press Mfg. Co., has been named a member of an advisory board for the machine tool industry, according to an Associated Press report today from Washington.

Mr. Whiting was appointed several weeks ago and has attended one meeting of the board in Washington but the official announcement was not made until today.

Mr. Whiting will continue to live in Mt. Gilead, since the appointment will involve only occasional meetings of the board in Washington, he said today. Associated with the Hydraulic concern for the past two years and prior to that time with the Lukens Steel Co. in Pennsylvania, Mr. Whiting was on government work in the first World war.

witnesses from Fairfield county, where Raver formerly lived, and also among the 17 defense witnesses so far summoned, called for Dr. Howard McIntyre of Cincinnati to appear March 26 to testify as to Raver's mental condition.

The state has subpoenaed approximately 18 witnesses, including Dr. F. C. Wagenhals of Columbus and Dr. George T. Harding of Worthington, alienists who likewise will testify as to condition of the defendant's mind.

The courtroom has been filled for each of the early days of the trial.

State's Contentions

Prosecutor Hanna and his assistant, Paul T. Mahon, contend that Raver planned the death of his wife because she had threatened to leave him and obtain a divorce. The youth was indicted Jan. 20, pleaded "not guilty by reason of insanity" on Feb. 14, and was held in the Lima state hospital for 28 days under observation. Mrs. Raver, also 23, was struck by two bullets from a rifle in hands of her husband, Corporal John A. Mooney ruled at time of the shooting. He and Dr. N. C. Bateman, who performed an autopsy, will be among the early witnesses for the prosecution.

MRS. MILDRED E. EPLEY of 217 Kenmore avenue announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Carol, to Corp. Rex Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Hill of 130 Kenmore avenue. The wedding will take place on April 26.

Miss Epley, a graduate of Harding High school in 1939 and of Office Training school in Columbus, is employed in the Marion-Reserve Power Co. office.

Corporal Hill, a Harding graduate of 1935, attended Ohio State university. He is now with the ground force of the army air corps at Harlingen, Tex., and expect to enter officers' training school.

Informal announcement was made last evening when Miss Apsley entertained her bridge club. One of the cards in the decoration was red, white and blue, her wedding colors, and bore the couple's names and the date of the wedding.

Miss Mildred Young won the award for high score in bridge and Miss Muriel Beresford won the floating award. Other guests at the party were Mrs. Robert Wills, Mrs. Ralph Nicolos, Mrs. Donald Maglott Jr., Miss Lillian Cleveland, Miss Janet Quigley, Miss Betty Felty, Miss Phyllis Hecker, Miss Eleanor Bowser and Miss Mary Ann Houghton.

Lunch was served at small tables decorated in the wedding colors. The red, white and blue place cards were decorated with plastic love birds.

MRS. JOSEPH O'CONNOR entertained with a dinner and bridge last evening at Hotel Harding as a pre-nuptial courtesy to Miss Martha O'Connor, a bride-elect of next month. In bridge the award was won by Miss Margaret Harlow and the hostess presented a gift to the honor guest. Miss O'Connor will become the bride of Ensign Martin Donald Lieb of Sunbury, Pa., on Thursday, April 9.

AUDITING and nominating committees were named at a meeting of Gamma Mu chapter, Delta Theta Tau sorority, last evening at Hotel Harding. Mrs. Nelson Ritzler and Miss Anne Gertrude Smith will serve as an auditing committee and Mrs. George Glocker, Miss Martha Van Atta and Mr. Ray Biddle on the nominating committee. Plans were made for a founders' day dinner April 21.

Mrs. Roy C. Stout, a recent bride, was complimented when Mrs. Charles Colwin and Mrs. Virginia Kelly entertained with a miscellaneous shower Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Stout's mother, Mrs. Carl Rieger of 777 Woodrow avenue. Awards in games were won by Mrs. Margaret Rieger and Miss Dorothy Stephenson. Mrs. Harold Markin received a special award. Present with the guest of honor who was Miss Helen Rieger before her marriage, were Mrs. Ellen Coulter, Mrs. Harold Markin, Mrs. Robert Mason, Mrs. Donald Preuninger, Mrs. Margaret Rieger, Mrs. Charles Robinson, Mrs. Clarence Rutherford, Mrs. Walter Sheely, Mrs. Robert Walsh, Miss Mary Louise Corwin, Miss Elsie Craft, Miss Eileen Solomon, Miss Dorothy Stephenson, Miss Dorothy Weninger, Mrs. Rieger and the hostesses.

A poll of Clionian club members, taken at a meeting last evening with Mrs. Harry Seiter of Powhattan street, revealed that 94 per cent of the membership purchased defense stamps or bonds in February. Mrs. G. L. Pierson was the associate hostess.

Officers elected for the coming year are Mrs. Earl Wittmer, president; Mrs. B. H. Buettin, vice president; Mrs. R. J. Graham, recording secretary; Mrs. William Guy, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Pierson, treasurer.

Mrs. Clarence Sanden read a paper on "Colombia," Mrs. Robert Pennisten contributed a paper on "Countries of Middle America" and Mrs. Wittmer read a paper on "Our Musical 'Good Neighbor' Policy."

Mrs. Charles Hoagland, Mrs. Ernest Phillians and Mrs. John Matthews won contest honors and Mrs. Wayne Frost won a guessing box when the Heigh Ho club met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Martin Lewis of Bellefontaine avenue. The afternoon was spent with needlework.

A bridal shower was given Saturday night at the home of Mrs. Robert Bushatz of 378 Avondale avenue in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Lowell Butler, the former Miss Wanda Bushatz. Mrs. Butler found her gifts on a table decorated in her wedding colors, pink and blue, which were also used on the refreshment table.

Guests included Mrs. Pearl Butler, Mrs. Charles Bushatz, Mrs. Harry Lutz, Miss Wanda Lutz, Mrs. Kelly Griffiths, Miss Mary Hanbert, Miss Gloria Butler, Miss Mary Ellen Butler, Mrs. Isabello Bellar, Mrs. Maxine Cole and Miss Ada Lee Lutz of Marion and Mrs. Dorothy Cook and Miss Ruth LeMay of Richwood.

Dessert Bridge and Shower Is Given Bride-Elect

MISS LOIS PETERSON, fiancee of Dr. Richard L. Morgan, was honored with a miscellaneous shower at a dessert bridge given Tuesday evening at Range's inn by Miss Martha Mosier and Miss Pauline Stannard.

The decorations carried out an Easter motif, including pussywillow, rabbits and chicks for the table centerpiece and gumdrop bunnies for favors. The gifts were in a large yellow and green box labeled "Lois," drawn by two large bunnies and with a small bunny driver. The appointments were in Miss Peterson's colors of yellow and green.

Miss Margaret Wolfley and Mrs. Harold Harmon won the first and second awards in bridge.

Guests were Miss Peterson and her mother, Mrs. Bernhard Peterson, Mrs. Herb Petrich, Mrs. Don Jones, Mrs. Richard Jennings, Mrs. Harold Harmon and Misses Margaret Dennis, Patsy Rauhauser, Barbara Fralich, Margaret Wise, Margaret Wolfley, Monna Brolliier, Ruth Turner, Isabelle Stump, Ruth Starr, June Clawson, Elizabeth Conley, Isabel Freer, Nadine Hulbert, Rachel McAfee and Joan Boyd.

VISITORS ATTEND SESSION OF REBEKAH LODGE HERE

Program Given at Sosnowski Meeting.

Guests from Caledonia, Marseilles, Morral, Wayside Rose lodge of Marion, Portage, Richwood and Chattanooga, Tenn., attended a "get together" meeting last night with Sosnowski Rebekah lodge. Wayside Rose lodge won an award for having the largest percentage of attendance. R. G. Williamson, a past grand master of the I. O. O. F. lodge, was introduced. The charter was draped for the late Mrs. Myrtle Conover of Dayton, past assembly president. Mrs. Minnie Van Asbeck was named chairman for the Sosnowski lodge observance, on or near April 26, of the founding of Odd Fellowship.

The meeting opened and closed with the singing of patriotic songs. Entertainment was provided by the hostess lodge and included a reading by Roslyn Rissler, a song by Jeannine Griffith of Prospect, a humorous song by a quartet and dancing by pupils of Miss Jayne Melby. Maryanne Neville gave a patriotic song and acrobatic dance. Donna Mae Emerson and Kathryn Phillips gave tap numbers and Mary Lou Cornelius sang three popular selections. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Kate Clapsaddle, social chairman, and Mrs. Julia Sims, chairman of the dining room committee, assisted by their committees.

Mrs. Clara Oswalt of 199 Olney avenue will entertain the Friendship circle on April 1. The next get-together meeting will be held April 20 at Morral.

Baptist Guild Meets at Home in Prospect

Mrs. Harriet McPherson was elected president of the Reverend guild of Prospect Baptist church at a potluck supper meeting Monday night at her home in Prospect. Others elected are Mrs. Mildred Jornston, vice president; Mrs. Victoria Thomas, secretary; Mrs. Helen Griffith, treasurer. Mrs. Thomas opened the meeting with prayer and devotions. Plans were completed for an assorationral rally Thursday night at the church and the last contribution was made to the guild's love gift for missions. Mrs. McPherson reported on material sent to the guild paper and the guild state convention in Cleveland in May was discussed in a letter read from the state secretary, Mrs. Grace Markwalder of Akron. Mrs. Griffith presented the lesson, "The Lenten Season," and Mrs. Johnston read an article, "Blackouts in Kodiak, Alaska." Mrs. Helen Hickman led the prayer band topic, "Bearing Others Burdens." A white elephant sale followed the program.

Cardington Woman and Loudonville Man Wed

The first day of Spring, Saturday, was chosen by Miss Gwenith Shaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Snow of Cardington, for her marriage to Henry Helbert, son of Mrs. J. A. Helbert of Loudonville.

The bride is a graduate of Caledonia High school and Samaritan Hospital School of Nursing in Ashland. She has been nursing in Mansfield for five years, most of the time on the staff of Mansfield General hospital. Mr. Helbert is a graduate of Loudonville High school and attended Wooster college. He is connected with the Cullar, Swank & Co., Inc., in Loudonville.

The bride wore a tailored suit of waterfall blue with beige accessories and a corsage of gardenia and pink rosebuds.

The parents of the bride and bridegroom were the only witnesses to the single ring ceremony, read by Rev. Howard McCracken at the United Brethren parsonage in Cardington at 11:30 a. m. The wedding party enjoyed a dinner at the Imperial Inn in Ashley.

After a wedding trip through the South and until he is called into military service they will reside in Loudonville.

Marion Couple Gets Call from Son in Navy

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Edwards of 835 Congress street talked by telephone with their son, Harry, Sunday night, the first word they had had from him since Dec. 17. Harry, now in his eighth year in the United States navy and assigned to a destroyer, called from the Atlantic area. He said he could not tell them where he had been and that if he knew, he could not say where he was going. Another son, Jimmy, who enlisted in the navy a year and a half ago, is on a battleship and is in the Pacific area. His parents heard from him several weeks ago.

Findlay Man Is Speaker at Dinner of Altrusa Club

THE play, "Watch on the Rhine" was reviewed by Richard Purdy of Findlay at the monthly dinner meeting of the Altrusa club last evening at Hotel Harding. The members were joined by a number of guests and dinner was served at a long table laid in the ball room. Low vases held red carnations and completing the table decorations were small American flags in holders and garlands of greenery.

Miss Jessie Lindsey presided and gave an informal talk in which she announced the observance of the 25th anniversary of the organization of International Altrusa club. Miss Mary Margaret O'Donnell, program chairman, was in charge of the program. Music included two piano numbers, "Valcik," Friml and "Concert Polka," Bartlett. Mrs. B. L. Wallace directed the singing of a number of club songs.

Guests included Mrs. J. W. McAdams of Syracuse, N. Y., Mrs. Floyd O. Roundy of Akron, Mrs. E. R. Jenkins of Detroit, Mrs. D. O. Wilson, Mrs. G. E. Waddell, Miss Georganne Waddell, Mrs. Katherine D. "I don't smoke," she answered. "I enjoyed your story very much, my dear, I hope [illegible] the River Queen' [illegible] Lively."

"I wanted to [illegible] Miss Marston agreed. "But James felt the crowd might be a bit rough—" Instantly she checked herself and looked up in time to stop at her husband and a shocked Jimmy. "I'm sorry. That sounded rather unpleasant, don't you," she admitted frankly. "I don't mean it, my dear—just the way it sounded."

"Melissa probably didn't know what you meant, Mother," said Jimmy coldly. "She's had almost as little experience of [illegible] as you have. The River Queen is her first experience with one. Before that she was [illegible] Stepping-lighter. Tell her about that, Melissa."

Talk With Mother

Beneath the bright, soft blue of the Indian summer sky, the golden yellow of the sunlight, the table seemed to sing with color. Melissa looked on, wide-eyed, enchanted, like a child as she talked, answering questions, telling about life at the Point and Green and the terribly important lamp that had to be kept clean and burning and filled with oil.

After lunch was over Mr. Marston tentatively offered Melissa a cigaret.

"I don't smoke," she answered. "She's also quite a character, this Gail of yours," he said pleasantly.

There was a quick mist of tears in Melissa's eyes, and for a moment she could not answer him. Mrs. Marston said quickly, "And now I'm going to take Melissa off with me for a little quiet chat. You two men stay here and wrangle about politics and the war."

Jimmy protested swiftly, "But, I want to show Melissa over the place—"

"You can show her the new puppies and the kittens later," said his mother firmly. "Right now, Melissa and I have important things to discuss."

Jimmy said in a swift, almost pleading tone "Mother, you won't—"

Mrs. Marston said firmly, "I think you can safely trust me, my boy."

Jimmy colored a little and his eyes fell away from hers. "Oh, of course! I just meant that—well, she doesn't know me very well yet, and I'm not positive that she likes me well enough to endure the sight of my baby pictures, my first little shoes or the last of my yellow curls," he said, grinning a little.

"You may rest assured I'll show her nothing more ancient than your graduation day photograph!" said Mrs. Marston, and with her hand through Melissa's arm she drew the girl into the house, across the beautiful long drawing-room, with its very old mahogany rubbed to a satin gloss, its faded damask hangings and its very fine, thin Persian rugs.

"This is my own private sanctum," said Mrs. Marston, waving Melissa to a deep, comfortable-looking chair. "When I come in here and close the door, nobody dares enter without permission. It's the place I fly to when I'm angry or hurt or puzzled—or tired and frightened."

"I can't imagine you ever being frightened of anything," said Melissa impulsively and warmly.

Mrs. Marston took a cigaret from a little crystal box on a small table beside her and, wonderingly, Melissa saw that her hand trembled a little as she lighted it.

"That's where you're wrong, my dear," said Mrs. Marston evenly, her voice taut, almost a little harsh. "Right at this moment, I'm more frightened than I can ever remember being. I'm frightened of what you may do to—Jimmy."

Melissa drew a long hard breath and her hands clenched hard in her lap. But she did not lower her head and her eyes met Mrs. Marston's unflinchingly.

"Please don't be afraid about that," she begged with utter sincerity, "because I wouldn't hurt him for anything in the world."

There was a mist of tears in Mrs. Marston's eyes and her smile was faintly tremulous as she said huskily, "But, my dear, how can you be so sure? He's in love with you—and that gives you a terrific power over him. Are you in love with him?"

Quick Answer

Melissa said instantly, not realizing that the very promptness of her answer was almost an insult to the absent Jimmy, "No!"

Mrs. Marston's head went up a little and a chill in her eyes replaced the tears. "But, my dear," she protested, a little resentful, "how can you be so terribly sure? After all, Jimmy is a very attractive boy. I assure you other women besides his mother think that."

"He is attractive—he's sweet!" said Melissa eagerly. "I like him a lot! But I'm not in love with him."

Mrs. Marston nodded, the chill melting a little as she smiled. "Oh, but you will be. Before you realize it, you'll wake up some day to realize that his charm has worked and that you are mad about him."

"No," said Melissa instantly, and saw relief in Mrs. Marston's eyes.

"Please don't resent my having asked that, my dear," said Mrs. Marston gently. "It's a mother's perfectly natural anxiety. After all, Enderlie is very old, and I feel that we of this and of Jimmy's generation owe something to the past. We owe them decency and honesty and descendants of whom they need not be ashamed."

"Of course," said Melissa huskily. "But I'm not in love with Jimmy and I don't intend to marry him, so you don't have to worry—"

Mrs. Marston stood up, took Melissa's hand and pulled the girl up to stand beside her. "Who's worrying?" she demanded lightly, despite the look in her eyes that told Melissa she spoke from her heart. "And whether you love Jimmy or not is his problem. I think we can safely leave it to him to solve. He's a pretty determined young man, you know. He's very fond of having his own way."

Melissa said stubbornly, "So am I!"

Mrs. Marston laughed and dropped a light kiss on the girl's

Buckeyes To Face Iowa Team Nov. 28

Bierman To Bring Star Cast to Columbus After Ft. Ft. Knox Appearance.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, March 25—Coach Paul E. Brown's Ohio State Buckeyes will face Bernie Bierman's Iowa Naval Air Training station in the Ohio stadium Nov. 28, it was announced by Ohio State officials last night. The Bucks have also tentatively scheduled Fort Knox for an Ohio stadium game, probably earlier in the season.

Here is the complete schedule of the Iowa Cadets as announced by Bierman, former Minnesota coach:

Sept. 19 — Kansas (tentative), site undecided.
Sept. 26—At Northwestern
Oct. 3—At Minnesota
Oct. 10—At Michigan.
Oct. 17—At Notre Dame.
Oct. 24 — Open (game to be scheduled)
Oct 31 — Indiana (tentative), site undecided.
Nov. 14 — Open (game to be scheduled))
Nov 21—Nebraska at naval station (tentative))
Nov. 28—At Ohio State.
Dec. 5 — Missouri (tentative), site undecided.

It was learned in Minneapolis last night that Minnesota's Golden Gopher crew will not play the Great Lakes Naval Training Station as previously planned.

The University of Iowa 1942 football team will play 10 games, seven of them at home, Athletic Director E. G. Schroeder announced last night.

Added to the Iowa schedule are games with Great Lakes, Oct 3, and Camp Grant (Ill.) Oct. 10, both at Iowa City.

A revised, 11-game 1942 schedule for the Notre Dame football team was made public by the Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, chairman of the faculty board of control

The Irish will open the campaign Sept. 26 against the University of Wisconsin at Madison. The game originally had been booked for Oct. 17. Instead, the Iowa Naval Cadet will fill the Oct 17 date at South Bend

Great Lakes Naval Training Station eleven will be played either at South Bend or at Chicago, Dec. 5, and the Southern California contest has been shifted from Los Angeles to South Bend because of wartime restrictions on the west coast.

Cleveland Seeks Game

A delegation of Cleveland sportsmen conferred with Notre Dame officials relative to transferring the Georgia Tech game from South Bend to the Cleveland Municipal Stadium. No decision was announced.

Guy Markey, Purdue university athletic director, said negotiations were nearing completion for a football game with Great Lakes at Lafayette, Nov. 7. The Boilermakers will schedule a contest also with another service team

Games announced thus far for the Great Lakes eleven are,

Sept. 26—At Michigan.
Oct. 3—At Iowa.
Oct. 21—At Michigan State.
Nov. 7—At Purdue (tentative)
Nov. 26—At Northwestern.
Dec 5—At Notre Dame (to be played at South Bend or Chicago)

BAER TO RECEIVE ARMY COMMISSION

To Get Lieutenantship in Air Corps Commissary.

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO March 25—Heavyweight Champ Joe Louis is in the army. So is the man who gave him his toughest fight for the title, Billy Conn. They may be joined in the military ring shortly by another big fellow. Guess who? Buddy Baer, the bomber-ize battler.

Unlike Louis and Conn, who are privates, Buddy may come up with a second lieutenant's commission, among all things, the air corps. Wherever you are, could the air corps find room for an athlete who stands better than 6 feet 6 inches and weighs 230 pounds. In the commissary department.

If or when the commission goes through, Buddy is expected to be stationed at Mather Field, Sacramento, near his home. Aside from commissary duties, he could put boxing on the map there.

Young Baer is married, the father of an infant child, but is anxious to get into military service in some capacity. Having failed to whip Louis, Buddy would like to lure Lou Nova, the ex-Yoga and cosmic punch exponent, into a formal jaw-cracking session.

"Nova is one fellow I'm positive I can lick," says Buddy.

KENNEDY LEADS IN NORTH-SOUTH EVENT

Fires 66 To Better Snead's Mark.

By The Associated Press

PINEHURST, N. C., March 25—Les Kennedy, 24, unemployed son of a Lynn, Mass., policeman was the talk of this resort town today as a result of his par-wrecking 66 in the North and South Open golf championship.

The unassuming youngster who never won a tournament or came close blasted champion Sammy Snead and ex-champion Ben Hogan out of the lead yesterday.

He never batted an eye as he took over the "champs."

He didn't play the "nineteenth hole." When the boys started looking for him, no one knew where he was stopping, and he did not hang around the club to pick up any loose pluadits.

Deferred by the draft because of sinus trouble, Kennedy has won only $550 in the full winter circuit. He was tenth in the Bing Crosby meet on the west coast and tied for fifth in the Beaumont, Tex., Open. But now he's busy cutting out a job for Hogan and Snead, whose 67's were forgotten in Kennedy's dazzling finish

Today's low 60 and ties will play tomorrow over 36 holes for the title

Tribe Front Office To Release Walker

By The Associated Press

CLEARWATER, Fla. — The Cleveland Indians have decided to trade holdout outfielder Gerald Walker to some other club, Vice President Roger Peckinpaugh announced.

Walker, 33, fell off in batting last year to .283 and drove in only 18 runs. He has been operating his drug store at Orlando, Fla., and never appeared at the Indians' spring training camp here.

"From my telephone conversations with Walker it is quite apparent he will be dissatisfied even if he finally decides to sign with us," declared Peckinpaugh. "Rather than have a dissatisfied player on the team, I have decided to trade him. I have informed Walker of this decision."

Holds Key to Who's Who in Baseball

Cliff Bloodgood Accepted as Last Word in Divisions.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK—Baseball's Ward McAllister, the arbiter of a player's right to be included in the game's Who's Who, is a quiet, husky round-faced chap named Cliff Bloodgood.

Years ago McAllister decided who belonged in New York society's "400." Today Bloodgood is the last word as to whether a player is included or omitted from the record book "Who's Who in Baseball."

All major leaguers aren't listed. Only the cream of the crop—as judged by Bloodgood and the averages — get in. A player can figure he has "arrived" when he makes "Who's Who." There are other record books but none can match the 27 years of service boasted by "Who's Who's."

Cartoonist

Bloodgood isn't an athlete. He got into baseball because he could draw. After attending art school he spent two years in the Navy during World War I and then started hunting for a job. Destiny led him, cartoons in hand, to Baseball Magazine. He was hired to do covers and cartoons, gradually got into the writing end and now is the magazine's editor. He hasn't drawn anything in a half dozen years.

Editing Who's Who, he says, is a year-'round job (he's already started work on the 1943 issue). Bloodgood gets his information about a player's record from the players and from the major and minor league statistical bureaus. He is going South in a few days and at every training camp he will gather data about players. He talks with players on the different clubs when they play in New York during the season.

Since "Who's Who" lists only 265 players and there are always 400 players in the majors, with another 200 playing part time, Bloodgood has a yearly headache in deciding who goes in and who doesn't. The players with the better batting or pitching averages always are listed. And a fellow who plays almost a complete season generally is included. Sometimes players who have appeared in as many as 125 (of the 154 games) are omitted because their batting averages are low.

Bloodgood isn't a prophet and sometimes a player does so much better than anyone figured that he makes Cliff look a bit silly for leaving him out of the book.

Pete Reiser Instance

Pete Reiser, for instance. Pete played with Brooklyn for some 50 games in 1940 but Cliff figured he hadn't quite earned his spurs and didn't list him in the 1941 Who's Who. So Reiser went on to win the league batting championship and Cliff's face was very red. Bloodgood says he seldom gets a beef from players who were not listed.

"They know I have a job Zeke Bonura kicked one year because his birthday was listed in 1908 while Zeke said he first saw the light in 1909. Most of the yelps come as a result of the very infrequent typographical errors.

"And if a .340 hitter is listed as a .210 batter you can't blame him for squawking," Cliff says

The 1942 issue, Bloodgood says, gave him the most trouble, because of the war.

"I didn't know who would be out of baseball and in the Army or how many rookies would make good veterans or veterans make a comeback to fill posts left vacant by draftees."

He left out two fellows who he is afraid may make him wish he'd listed them — Pitchers Tom Hughes of the Phillies and Alex Carrasquel of Washington.

Two of Cliff's biggest boners have been on the front cover of Who's Who. One year he had Hank Greenberg's name spelled wrong and last year he used a pitching picture of Bob Feller which looked pretty snappy until some fan wrote in and pointed out that Rapid Robert didn't have a ball in his hand.

Movie Delegation Makes Bid for Fame

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 25 — The Los Angeles delegation, which has been passing out wine in its campaign for the American Bowling Congress' 1944 tournament, will give the boys a show on the alleys tonight.

It will be an exhibition of keg-ling prowess starring Harold Lloyd, the movie producer-comedian, and Max Stein, captain of the Warner Brothers five-man team.

ABC officials don't know what to expect from Lloyd. Stein, however, holds the ABC all-events record of 2070, and will be trying to better it.

A new leader appeared in the doubles today: Walter Selle and Joe Spanish of Rock Island, Ill. They rolled 1342, or seven points better than the preceding first placers, Harvey Braatz and Louis Strizzi of Cleveland.

Selle knocked down 289, highest single game so far in the tournament, and finished his three-game series with 709.

The next best performance was 1284, which netted fifth place in the doubles for Carl Baumgartner and Hugh Stewart of Cincinnati. Baumgartner won the singles crown in 1923 with 724 and Stewart was all-events titlist in 1932 with 1980.

Meanwhile, the ABC office announced that 900 teams had made reservations for the 1943 tournament in Buffalo, N. Y.

CIVILIAN POLICE SET MOBILIZATION TEST

Those Serving North of Center St. To Assemble Thursday.

First trial mobilization of part of the city's civilian police force has been set for Thursday night from 7:30 to 8:30, E. M. Breithaupt, chief of the civilian force announced today.

Those men who have volunteered for service in Districts 2, 3 and 5, the section of the city north of Center street, will patrol their zones during the one-hour period.

No mobilization signal will be sounded, Mr. Breithaupt said. All men will be expected to be on duty, walking their beats.

A tour of the area will be made by Police Chief William E. Marks, Mr. Breithaupt and the three civilian captains, Gene Hill, L. M. Sherman and Don Clark.

The civilian police will be identified by white arm bands.

Mr. Breithaupt said the main purpose of the mobilization will be to familiarize the men with the business houses in their districts. The civilian police force will be concerned only with policing business areas, the residential policing to be the duty of the air raid wardens, he said. Mr. Breithaupt asked that business men in the area be at their places of business to meet the civilian policemen.

Next month there will be a trial mobilization of Districts 3, 4 and 6, the area south of Center street.

Marion Boy's Arm Broken Twice in 3-Month Period

A right arm broken twice in three months is some kind of a record for 11-year-old George Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Miller of 513 Avondale avenue. Luckily, he's a "southpaw."

Tuesday night he and his neighborhood pals were engaging in some rough-and-tumble play. George fell and both bones in his right arm were broken. His parents took him to the Frederick C. Smith clinic where the injury was X-rayed and treatment was given. He was to be released this afternoon.

During the 1941 Christmas holidays George was playing at the Y. M. C. A. and fell. His right arm was broken, between the elbow and wrist, almost at the place where the arm was injured last night.

George is a sixth grade pupil at the Silver Street school.

BUNDLES KNITTING MEETING PLANNED

Work Session Will Take Place Thursday.

A knitting meeting for Bundles for Blue Jackets will be held Thursday afternoon from 1 to 5 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Carl F. LaMarche on East Church street. A silver tea will be held in connection with the knitting.

Miss Maud Gorham is asking that all knitted garments both for Bundles for Blue Jackets and Bundles for Britain be returned to her at her home on South Main street, by Saturday, March 28.

The local group has received yarn allotments from the War Production Board for both the Bundles for Blue Jackets and Bundles for Britain. Thirty-two pounds of heavy navy yarn has been received, Miss Gorham announces. From this are to be made 12 turtle neck sweaters, 24 pairs of gloves, 24 navy helmets and 10 navy watch caps. The allotment for Bundles for Britain includes 10 pounds of air force yarn, 10 pounds of white yarn and 10 pounds of gray yarn. This will be made into garments according to regular patterns. A small supply of scarf yarn is on hand, Miss Gorham announces. Receipt of the new allotments will be announced.

WARNS TIRE BOARDS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 25—Harry T. Beckmann, state rationing administrator, warned Ohio's 850 local rationing boards not to "go hog wild" in issuing certificates for recapped tires under the enlarged quotas for April.

WHEEL, TIRE STOLEN

Marie Stull of 203 St. James street reported to police yesterday that a spare tire and wheel were stolen from her car some time in the last 10 days. Police said the trunk lock of the auto was broken, to gain entrance to the car.

The census bureau requires a statement of the cause of death on all death certificates. Recently a certificate read: "Cause of death—6 bullet wounds; all taking effect in the abdomen. Contributory cause—jealousy."

ROTARY CLUB SEES AUTOMOTIVE PICTURE

Meeting Time Changed To Start at Noon.

A motion picture entitled "Cavalcade" was presented as a feature at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary club yesterday noon in Hotel Harding.

The picture which was prepared by the General Motors Corp. showed scenes of an exhibit which was on display at the World's Fair in Chicago concerning the development of the motor car industry.

At a board meeting it was decided to change the meeting time from 11:45 to 12 noon. Meetings will be scheduled to end at 1:15 p. m.

Guests at the meeting were Philip Guthery of Marion, Peter Van Dommelen of Holland, Mich., and Hobart S. Seckman of Cardington.

Marion Man Arrested After Car Hits Pole

Chard Jerew, 57, of 225 Owens street entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned in municipal court this morning, accused of operating an auto while intoxicated. He was released on a $110 bond pending a hearing tomorrow.

Police arrested Jerew following an accident at 8:40 last night on South Prospect street. According to police, a sedan driven by Jerew struck a telephone pole in front of 676 South Prospect street. The pole was snapped off, and police reported minor damage resulted to the auto.

Highway Patrolman Speaks at Galion

Special to The Star

GALION, March 25 — Corporal E. H. Davey of Marion of the Ohio state highway patrol, spoke Tuesday to members of the Galion Kiwanis club at their meeting at Hotel Talbott. He stressed the importance of volunteering in civilian defense units.

Corporal Davey outlined the work expected of civilian defense units, and stressed the often repeated statement that Ohio is not immune to air attacks. He told of the importance of this area to the defense effort, and that it would be a likely target for any attack. If such an attack should take place, the speaker continued, we could not expect help from the army or navy, but we would have to depend upon the local organizations to meet the emergency.

Nap T. Videon of Bellevue was the only guest at the meeting.

BARBERS RAISE PRICES

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, March 25—Hamilton county barbers have approved increases from 50 to 60 cents in the price of haircuts and from 25 to 30 cents for shaves, effective on or about April 6.

Government consent is required for the establishment of new factories or laboratories for the production of drugs in Chile.

MARION BETHEL HAS ANNUAL INSPECTION

Grade of Excellent Given In Annual Test.

A grade of excellent was given Marion Bethel No. 2, Job's Daughters when Mrs. Laura Bockhorst of Cincinnati, grand guardian, conducted the annual inspection at the bethel Tuesday night. A class of seven candidates was initiated and the newly organized drill team acted as an escort for the grand officers and also exemplified the work. Visitors included members of Lydia Chapter No. 83, Order of the Eastern Star, the Masonic organizations and parents of the members.

A dinner at Hotel Marion preceded the meeting. Decorations were in keeping with the Easter season.

On April 9 Mrs. Bockhorst will inspect the bethel at the Masonic home when the drill team from the local bethel will put on the work. Plans were made for a meeting April 14 when the majority degree will be conferred for members who have reached their majority. Miss Ruth Wise, honored queen, presided. At the invitation of the grand guardian she will take part in the grand session to be held at the Netherlands-Plaza hotel in Cincinnati in June.

The members are sponsoring a benefit picture show, "Always in My Heart," which will open Friday at the Ohio theater.

Byhalia Man Pleads Not Guilty to Charge

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, March 25 — Rolly Doyle of Byhalia, pleaded not guilty Monday at a preliminary hearing before Common Pleas Judge Richard Cameron to a charge of illegal sale of intoxicating liquor and was released under $300 bond. Hearing was set for Saturday morning.

Doyle was arrested by Sheriff Homer S. Rousa after a warrant was sworn out by Ralph A. Palmer of the Ohio department of liquor control. In the affidavit Palmer charges that he and Deputy Burton purchased three drinks of liquor from Doyle Saturday.

Steel Expert Talks in Dinner Program

Charles Briggs of Cleveland, technical advisor for the Technical and Operative Group of the Steel Foundrymen's Society of America, spoke before 50 members of that group at a dinner meeting at Hotel Harding last night.

Mr. Briggs' topic was "The Effect of Molten Steel on Sand." The meeting was presided over by Charles Reymann Jr. of the Atlantic Foundry in Akron, chairman of the organization.

COUPLE EXCHANGE VOWS

BUCYRUS, March 25—Simplicity marked the wedding Monday of Miss Pauline Caldwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Caldwell of Bucyrus and Virgil Schieber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schieber of north of Bucyrus, which was performed in the home of the Rev. J. W. Dowds, pastor of Brokensword Methodist church.

PLAY SELECTED BY SENIORS AT HARDING

"Inside the Lines," a War Drama, Is Chosen.

Earl Derr Biggers' comedy-romance, "Inside the Lines," has been selected for the Harding High school 1942 senior class play, Miss Lucile Foreman, coach, has announced.

The play will be presented Thursday, May 7, at the Palace theater.

Tryouts for the 20 roles, six for girls and 14 for boys, are under way this week.

The author of the "Seven Keys to Baldpate" and the creator of Charlie Chan, wrote "Inside the Lines" as a play of the first world war period.

That it is timely in 1942 is indicated in the setting, the Rock of Gibraltar at a time fifth columnists are plotting to blow up the British fleet in the harbor.

Selecting of the play followed months of search by Miss Foreman.

TO SPEAK APRIL 10

Wayne B. Albers, national representative, will speak at a meeting of Townsend clubs here April 10, according to word received from national headquarters. The meeting will be held at the Silver Street school at 7:30 p. m.

North Carolina produces nearly half of the nation's entire tobacco crop. Each tobacco farm in that state produced an average of 1,942 pounds of tobacco, at the time of the last census.

Axis Sub Torpedoes U. S. Ship Off Virginia

By The Associated Press

NORFOLK, Va., March 25 — Continuing their intensive cam-paign against allied merchant shipping off the Atlantic coast, axis submarines blasted a medium sized American vessel into a V-shaped derelict early Saturday morning, sending her Captain E. V. Peters, of New York, to almost certain death.

The other 36 crew members es-caped in four lifeboats, eight crewmen in two boats were picked up by a rescue ship after nine hours adrift and were landed at Norfolk. Another ship rescued 29 others and took them ashore at Southport, N. C., the Fifth naval district said in announcing the sinking today.

INTEREST LAGS IN RAIL BONDS

Some Stocks Get Into Higher Ground but Trend Is Not Generally Higher.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 25—The stock market could offer little to-day to compensate for a marked shrinkage of interest in the lately soaring railroad bonds.

Getting into advanced territory at times were U. S. Rubber, American Telephone, Western Union, Cerro De Pasco and United Aircraft Motors and steels were a little soft as was Westinghouse.

Cotton added to the previous day's gains and grains were steady.

In an inactive curb, higher marks were posted by American Cyanamid and Pantepec Oil.

Brokers felt the market stale-mate could be attributed in part to increasing talk in military and diplomatic quarters about the possibility of big offensives in the war theaters in the next two or three months. They also be-lieved that an agreement in Washington on policy dealing with taxes, corporate profits and labor would be helpful in clari-fying the muddled picture facing investors and speculators.

GRAIN PRICES SLIP AFTER EARLY GAINS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 25—After an early attempt to extend yester-day's rally, the grain market re-treated today and closed with general price losses.

A break in soybeans, prices of which were off as much as 3 cents at one time, unsettled grains. Wheat sagged about a cent.

Wheat closed ⅝-1 cent lower than yesterday, May $1.23⅛-⅜, July $1.27½; corn ⅜-½ down, May 87⅛, July 89¼; oats ¼-⅜ off soybeans 2¼-3⅛ lower; rye ⅝-1 lower.

Selling of soybeans was blamed largely on the official government estimate of acreage to be planted this season, indicating the war-time goal of 9,000,000 acres har-vested for beans may be achieved or exceeded. Traders also noted a sharp decline in Minneapolis flax prices.

Favorable crop prospects and lagging flour demand continued to depress wheat.

BRITISH PRODUCTION UP

LONDON, March 25—An offi-cial British spokesman said today war production figures had in-creased more than 40 per cent since last September but the min-istry of supply "already sees a way to go far beyond this." "The government will not be satisfied with anything less than the very greatest volume of production of which we are capable," said Ralph Assheton, parliamentary secretary to the ministry of supply.

Pitfalls of Love

Gus Tells Madge How He Learned That Men in Other Armored Car Are in Search of Diswell

"YES, I think that would be best,' Gus said. 'Still I'd like the sheets."

"No indeed," I told him. "Put them and one blanket back in the bag. The other will do for me, that no one can get me."

"Will you be going to sleep?"

"No indeed, I shall be very wide-awake until we get to the end of our journey."

"Then you better have a whistle now, he said drawing it from his pocket and extending it to me.

Luckily I remembered a small decorative pocket high at the left of my bodice, from which a handkerchief "to chase out 'er blow" showed its edge and I tucked the small whistle behind it.

Hides Under Blanket

"I'll take it out and hold it in my hand as soon as I get to the house' I told him, and the worried lines in his face smoothed themselves out.

"That is good' he said, then picked up the sheets and one of the blankets and put them back into their container. I promptly picked up the lighter blanket, lay down on the rear seat with my head buried in the pillow I also had salvaged, and drew the blanket over me so that I was completely covered.

"Is it possible for anyone to see me now?" I asked Gus through the fold of the blanket.

'No, nobody can see nothing' Gus asserted stoutly. "You can stick your nose and mouth out more if you want to, if you keep that blanket over the top of your head."

Sees Country Store

"That will be fine," I told him, emerging a little from my cocoon. "As soon as we get the directions from the storekeeper at Warren, please come back and tell me about them."

"Okay!" The mechanical rejoinder punctuated his progress to the front of the car, where he slid into the seat again beside Bill and the driver. Having left the winding shore of the lake, the driver was sending the big car along the wider thoroughfare at a speed that made me cling to the cushions and wonder how long it would be before I should land in a heap on the floor of the car.

But, miraculously, I stayed on the cushions. In another five minutes the car had stopped, and I was able to see the sign and front porch of the big country store.

Gus Makes Inquiries

Gus and the driver descended from the car and went into the store. It was only two minutes before Gus dashed out again, got into the car and came back to me.

"Missis Graham," he said, and his eyes showed his excitement

Spinal Column Injuries

The [illegible] reported in the [illegible] about Johnny in school [illegible] to hold your head up if you can't to sit down on it if you can't.' The [illegible] got [illegible] that it left out a good deal. Before the [illegible] Johnny discovered [illegible] get into a good deal of trouble.

There are [illegible] separate bones in the spinal column—[illegible] vertebrae, twelve chest vertebrae, five lumbar vertebrae, the sacrum and the little bone of the coccyx. Between each of these is a joint which can be the location of arthritis.

Attached to and holding all these bones together are muscles and tendons which can become inflamed, causing muscular rheumatism, lumbago and other forms of inflammatory disability. The entire column is subject to injury of many kinds. I described a few weeks ago, my own experience with a sudden sacro-iliac strain, which means a strain of the ligaments between the sacrum and the pelvic bone.

Between each vertebra there is a kind of cushion of cartilage and softer material. One of the forms of injury which has recently been described and is obtaining attention is an injury where some of this soft tissue between the vertebrae is forced out of place—so-called dislocation of the nucleus pulposus. At the Mayo Clinic it has been found that in most cases of sciatica that resist the ordinary forms of treatment the trouble is a herniated nucleus pulposus. This can be fixed by surgery, and relief afforded in these stubborn cases.

With all these possibilities it can be seen that the treatment of backache is not a simple matter. It may be all right to try home remedies, such as heat and the hot water pad on a backache for a few days or a week but after that I would advise consultation with a doctor who has had considerable experience in this line. He will take a careful history, make a physical examination, have an X-ray of the spine and be able to prescribe intelligent treatment on the basis of these facts.

Treatment of disease of the backbone may require in some cases rest, even to the extent of wearing a cast and in other cases manipulation and massage and exercise, heat, diathermy, climate, vaccinations and many other forms of treatment are at the modern surgeon's command, with which he is able to relieve most cases of these troubles.

The sufferer from backache, or backbone injury or disease today is in a much more favorable condition to be relieved than his fellow sufferer of a generation ago when nearly everything was ascribed to "railroad spine."

The Stars Say—

For Thursday March 26

THE SIDEREAL operations for this period may be read as perplexing if not obscure in the interpretation of definite auguries. The predominant factor is an encouraging one for attacking major objectives, with originality and perhaps surprising tactics, backed up by practical and tested systems or techniques. But these must have the support of influential personages whose cooperation may be secured by diplomatic, secret, subtle or shrewdly organized strategies.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year in which subtle undercurrents may be the source of success and surprising progress and prosperity. There are certain astral angles of the obscure, elusive or inspirational which may be at work beneath the surface to bring this about, but supported by individual creative ability and ingenuity of a thoroughly practical and demonstrable character. This sound procedure may bring the required assistance from high places which would not be amenable to direct and abrupt action.

A child born on this day while having sound as well as exceptional constructive abilities, may also gain by secret, subtle or unique means of attracting support from those in power.
